Watch out for unwanted strangers on your gift list

By Ben Clarke

While we are often told that it is "more pleasant to give than to receive," it is more pleasant when the recipient is someone of the donor's choice. Most "present" policies chief Noel Edmond told The Day Friday how to insure this.

He said that proper safeguarding of autos in the parking lot at Randolph's for many years ago.

"All autos should be kept locked, even though the shop is to be used," said the chief. "Keys should never be left in the car, and above all don't stop, leave the engine running and run in and out of a store."

MOTORISTS ARE OFTEN told that all keys should be taken.

"No presents or gifts should be given on the seat of your car," said Edmond. The best rule, when a shopper is to make another trip back or stop on the way home, is to take all presents in the trunk of the car, he said.

He told of a deception to track unwary motorists, reported by Federal Bureau of Investigation bulletin.

A lady shopper returns to her car in a shopping center parking lot. Strangely enough, that faithful old family has been replaced by a new one. It is now a new car, and the engine runs and the car is in a state of a store.

5 youths arrested in shotgun incident

Five youths were arrested on varying charges early Sunday morning after a fight with seven others in the parking lot in the Red Balloon restaurant at 515 E. Randolph, Des Plaines.

Monty Beckson and Des Plaines police responded to a call that a man was in the parking lot of the Red Balloon with a shotgun.

POLICE SAID the group stopped off at Ben's home and got the unloaded 12 gauge shotgun.

When Fitzpatrick came out of the building, Krueger reportedly met him.

Police said five iron, breakers or bars, or racket hands were taken at the scene.

POLICE SAID Daniel W. Krueger of 12 E. Henry, Arlington Heights, was in the Red Balloon earlier in the evening. At the time, he had allegedly caused a disturbance and the bartender, Thomas Fitzpatrick, of 805 N. Mitchell, Arlington Heights, ordered Krueger to leave.

Police said Krueger left the restaurant and contacted several friends and asked them to meet him later and return to the Red Balloon to wait for Fitzpatrick to leave.

The friends were Michael Riedelbach, 19, of 2041 Cherry Hill Dr., John W. Fireman, 19, of 1937 Everett, James A. Mettler, 18, of 1417 N. Rand Rd., all of Arlington Heights and James C. Born.

Displaced families to use townshp facilities temporarily

The Elk Grove Twp. Board of Auditors has agreed to allow temporary parking of house trailers for emergency housing on the town hall property. 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., according to William Rohlfing, township supervisor.

The auditors met Saturday with representatives of Neighborhoods at Work (NAW), a local community group, to discuss the use of township facilities for emergency purposes.

NAW said it would like to let them (NAW) park the trailers in the lot. Rohlfing said, and they could use our toilet facilities and our water and that we would look at electricity up to them.

NORWESCO center votes funds for evicted

The advisory committee of the NORWESCO Opportunity Center has voted funds to aid evicted families in the north-west suburbs, according to Mrs. William Trevor, committee treasurer.

"The committee has voted about $10,000 to help evicted families. The money from churches, organizations and individuals, as well as $17,000 from the city of the township, is available for the program," she said.

"If there are evictions and there is no way of finding them, the center will take care and provide for anybody that is in this situation," she said.

2 youths charged with auto trespass

Two youths from Mayville arrested in Dug Plains were charged with criminal trespass to a motor vehicle night after they allegedly stole an auto belonging to Grand McNulty of 13022 Euclid, Prospect Heights, while it was in the Standard Station on Rand Rd. Mount Prospect.

Charged were Ronald Rodriguez, 17, and Paul A. Stuart, 17.

Police said that the youths were first arrested by a police officer, but they were not going to press charges against them. They were taken to the Mount Prospect police station where they were held for 24 hours.

Police said the two admitted that they had stolen the car from the service station.

Rodriguez and Stuart were released on a $1,000 bond. They are to appear in Mount Prospect Court Jan. 8.

Arrest driver after chase through Hoffman Estates

A Hoffman Estates youth charged with criminal trespass to a motor vehicle night after they allegedly stole an auto belonging to Grand McNulty of 13022 Euclid, Prospect Heights, while it was in the Standard Station on Rand Rd. Mount Prospect.

Apartment burglarized

A burglar entered the apartment of Mrs. Barbara A. Kowalski, 601 E. Falcon Dr., Arlington Heights, Friday night.

Police said the apartment was entered and the room was broken up. Nothing was reported stolen.

Police also said they found pry marks on the front doors of many other apartments.

Deadline tomorrow for the day's Christmas project

Tomorrow is the last day for all donations to the Day's appeal for Christmas gifts for children in Cook County.

After Tuesday, a final trip will be made to the Chicago Regional Office of Children and Family Services to deliver the gifts.

Last Thursday, a lot of presents and $500 cash was delivered to Chicago. The Day hopes to make Christmas a special day for the more than 1,200 poor children now wards of the state of Cook County.

Although all persons who have made donations and still plan to be not be able to see the happy smiles of children in the day, they will have the personal satisfaction of knowing they have done what they could.

They will have made these lonely and forgotten children's lives a little brighter and possibly have given them hope in the future.

Children like Alice, 4 years old, who was abandoned in foster home recently when her family was broken up, also become lonely and sad. They are a very young age because of a lack of love and security.

Alice's foster family must patiently reach out to her until she can trust them enough to share her heart with them.

Jenny's mother is in a mental institution and the gift of a new dress was marked with inability.

When he first came to his foster home, Jimmy was a timid, frightened child who seldom spoke.

With the patient assistance of the foster family he has at last begun to relax and talk about his concerns for his mother.

Gifts for these children should be wrapped and accompanied by a small card explaining the gift and the name of the boy or girl and what age of child the gift is for.

The collection locations are:

The Arlington Day Office, 217 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, open for collection today and tomorrow, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

St. Mary's Hospital, 101 W. Higgins, in local month's until adequate housing can be found for them. They include:

Mr. and Mrs. Armando Gomez and their 3-month-old child, Mr. and Mrs. Santana Gomez and their two children. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Crenshaw and their four children; and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Misa and their five children.

THE HOMEK property is one of four Elk Grove Twp. properties where county building inspectors last week found violations of code violations.

Mrs. Gars said her group sent telegram to the American Red Cross, the Salvation Army, Cook County Board of Health, and the Illinois State Board of Health.

President of George Dundas, School District 9 and School District 14, and for 72 Elk Grove Twp. residents.

The group has collected clothing, blankets and medical supplies will be needed for the evicted families by tomorrow.

Mrs. Gars said the only reply she received was from the American Chapter of the Red Cross.

She said that had been advised that Elk Grove Village officials have adequate planning to meet any emergencies of individuals who would be evicted from present housing by court order.

According to Mrs. Gars, the Red Cross said it does not get involved in cases where the location is the cause for distress.

Evicted man seeks $1,200 from village

Jesus Flores, one of 17 persons evicted Dec. 6 from 1100 Landmark Rd., Elk Grove Village, is seeking reimbursement for $1,200 in property he claims was destroyed when his house trailer was burned by the village fire department, according to David Weiner, his attorney.

Werner, who is owner of the Cook County Legal Assistance Foundation, said he has written a letter to the village officials listing the articles, including the house trailer, which Flores says were lost in the fire.

Charles Willis, Elk Grove Village manager, said the village is looking into the matter to determine if Flores claim is valid.

SIMON SUBURB SAYS

Barbarians who play them should worry. One wrong move and they could die.

'They heard him exclaim as he drove out of sight'

Was it really Stan Cline? Arlington Heights Police men Larry Rowland and Charles Slater reported Thursday that they observed a suspicious pickup going between houses on the north side of Oakton near Dryden.

The man was again seen by the two policemen on Victor Street last week of December and at the time the policemen stopped the man.

Day light

By Joseph Stuenkel

As we edge our way cautiously into a sparkling new twelfth month, folks who were a shade of prognosticators at us cause a feeling of unease.

Some local forecasts are almost bound to be surefire, given a bit of time and some ordinary assistance from the city.

For instance, we fearlessly announce that Schaumburg will continue to keep housing the team, both with popular and unpopular matter, the whole northwest suburban area will abound in new ideas, vigorous expansion and exciting happenings.

Arlington Heights will be noteworthy, particularly in the area of effective representation in Cook County with two local residents, John Woods and Mrs. Virginia Macdonald, on the scene, while Palatine's downtown mall program will turn that solid community on its axis before the villagers get properly oriented.

THIRTI will be referendum, lower half meetings on the pros and cons of flood control, night racing, better garbage pickup arrangements and at least a token filling-in of the backyards, more caution, instead of fear in your chewing apparatus, increased postage rates and an urgent need for new time for the family car.

Going a step beyond such routine forecasts, you will, of course, find yourself longing for an all-knowing guide who can assure you which exact course to take through the maze of the 365 days ahead. This explains the horde of avid students of astrology, horoscopes and scanners of zodiacal charts who, in an apparently shy world, want a hothouse of precise surety under the highway of the future.

Well, nobody looks with more fervor than we do on a methodical plan of one's work. It's most desirable to get through the day's turmoil by using measured procedures of choice to minutes to a writer of tasks.

ture-tellers love to dispense.

YOUR list will probably include higher taxes, more unretreatable dollars, crabgrass in the backyard, more caution, instead of fear in your chewing apparatus, increased postage rates and an urgent need for new time for the family car.

Why bother with free will, or hobnobbing with deities at all, if some time-clock, with a weird and wondrous mechanism swathed in nebulae, is always at hand to do the computer job for humans?

THAT NOTABLE figure in the parade of men have pursued orderly processes in thought and deed is a master of record. But we cannot recall that Ben Franklin, Copernicus, Lincoln, Washington, Galileo, Faraday, Edison, Bacon, Aristotle, Hippocrates and similar persons of top achievement ever punched a time-clock, in their lives, or checked their horoscope for a step or go sign.

The Scotch verdict "not proven" comes to mind when we hear of those who lay claim to ESP and other special abilities. We admit that there may be those who have experienced special manifestations down the centuries.

We mean that our sense of wonder is just as well developed as that of any fellow man.

Crystal ball

We are enthralled when reading about the best worlds of Atlantis or Lemuria, the endless riddles of the pyramidal builders, the true site of Camelot, the so-to-be-or-not-of the Loch Ness monster, the UFOs whizzing about in an atmosphere of denial and affirmations, the whole arena of mysterious events complicated in the books by Charles Fort or R. D. DeWitt or Frank Edwards or pictured in the Houdini photographs of psychic phenomena.

There is a fascination in pursuing the predictions of Edgar Cayce, James Dixon and other spokesmen of what lies beyond mortal ken. If we seem skeptical about the matter-of-fact starmaking of specific events on stated occasions, you can blame it on dislike for having blueprints laid out for humanity, including this humble person, as the Chinese put it, is so that we are committed to a schedule so tight that it would shame the Chicago, All North Western train which serves this northwestern suburban area.

Tomorrow Is Today

By Joseph DeLuise

I have had several requests to do a series on Karma. So this week we will begin a discussion on that subject.

The law of Karma is cause and effect. The ordinary person has very little knowledge of it, any of the law of cause and effect. To many it is something that someone has talked about, nothing definite, nothing concrete, more theory than anything else. But they have their own problems and are having a difficult time trying to straighten out their Karma.

The ordinary person tries to do what is right, but yet, because of fearful emotions, his actions turn to anger, jealousy, to greed and even dishonesty.

"Karma" is a Sanskrit word which has been translated to mean "action" or "doing" or "the result of a better definition is an action on an ongoing force."

To be continued Wednesday

LETTERS:

Dear Mr. DeLuise:

Will we sell our home this year? My son-in-law started in business. Will he make good? My daughter is very nervous. Is something wrong with her?

Mrs. E. S. Arlington Heights

Dear Mrs. E.S.:

I don't see anything wrong with your home this year. I feel if your son-in-law gets over his first year and a half he will be fine. Your daughter will continue to be nervous for a while yet, but eventually this will correct itself.

Dear Mr. DeLuise:

I am PG and am giving the baby up. Am I unstable? Will my future be any better and will I become alright? Also, I have a guy in Vietnam and he doesn't write. Have I lost him or will things be alright?

L.D.B., Bensenville

Dear L.D.B.:

I feel your decision to give up the baby at this time makes sense. You will have another chance for happiness. Give yourself a break. Prepare yourself for a better future. Right now you are not equipped to handle mature situations but I feel a return in school will help you. Do let you'll hear from the guy in Vietnam.

Dear Mr. DeLuise:

Please tell me where we will be living two years from now. Also, our eldest son has a problem. Will he ever be able to love?

M.B.M., Mount Prospect

Dear M.B.M.:

Please make your questions more specific if you should write again. Regarding your general question, I feel you'll be living West. I feel your son will solve his problem, sooner than you think.

JOSEPH DE LOUISE, nationally known psychic, will answer the questions of Day readers in this column. Letters should be signed, but names will be omitted if the writer requests it. Write to DeLuise in care of Day Publications, 722 Center St., Des Plaines 60018.

Lee Janson LISTENS TO YOU

IS SCROOGE HERE?

Dear Lee, Scrooge... I hate to be Christmas come. This may seem very important to you, but it is to me. There are lots of parties, and my parents go to so many of them. That's OK, except that means I have to say home and help with my little sister. It also means I can't do some things I'd like to do, and I miss some parties.

Christmas vacation is too short as it is, and I want some enjoyment from it. My parents just don't seem to understand.

Students need a rest and some fun. I can't believe your parents would keep you in every night. Why not sit down and work out a schedule? Maybe they'll let you get a half-time if it's a special night. Hope it's a happy vacation.

RULES TO BE BROKEN

Dear Lee Janson,

Do you believe in resolutions? With the New Year's coming up, I'm already writing resolutions. My boyfriend says I'm vain. He says nobody keeps resolutions, and the whole thing is a waste of time. Every year I make some good resolutions, and every year I keep them. I know lots of people don't, but I do.

For a Good New Year. Send your resolutions to Lee Janson, c/o Day Publications, 117 S. Main St., Mount Prospect, Illinois 60055.

It's 'Something Special'

By Frances Altman

"Something Special" is exactly that—an interior decorating shop full of accent goodies from the ceiling to the floor.

A few weeks ago Mrs. Ardith Gubrunsen, formerly of North Barrington and now of St. Charles, and Mrs. Patricia Vane of Morton Grove discovered a vacant store at 17 E. Miner in Arlington Heights. It only took them a few days to move in and unpack such special antiques as the authentic Hunt desk now in their front window. They also have included a carefully selected collection of museum reproduction.

ARDITH is already well known to many area residents. She was the interior decorator for Gaudier's in Morton Grove, and it was there that she met Pat.

Ardith had often thought of starting her own interior decorating store but realized that she should have an experienced assistant. Pat's previous sales experience and a background in advertising made her an ideal partner.

Mrs. Gubrunsen is a graduate of Wheaton College and studied at the Chicago Art Institute. Her hobby for many years has been antique and more specifically 18th century pieces. Her interest in this area has been heightened by working on several restoration movements. More recently she attended the Antique Forum at Williamsburg, Va.

This week while you're out shopping, rent yourself to "Something Special" and drop by and meet Arlington Heights' newest newcomers. While you're there you might even solve some of your Christmas shopping problems.

Mrs. Patricia Vane displays the handcrafted metal chandelier which is being used as the symbol of their new store on announcements.

A unique collection of accessories such as the museum reproduction by Ardith Gubrunsen awaits shoppers at "Something Special" newly opened interior decorating shop at 17 E. Miner, Arlington Heights. Behind Mrs. Gubrunsen hangs a delicately made French dagger.

Kristine Rue turns actress

Kristine Rue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merlyn C. Rue, Arlington Heights, is a cast member in "The Railroad Crossing" one of three one-act plays presented at Drake University in December.

The plays, grouped under the title "Three by Sororians," were written by Mexican playwright Carlos Soriano, professor of Latin American literature and coordinator of the graduate program in philosophy and letters at the University of Mexico. The plays were performed as part of the Drake Interamerican Celebration.

Kristine is a sophomore in the College of Fine Arts, majoring in theater arts.

Last Wednesday the Arlington Heights Woman's Club's annual gift-wrapping party for the Indian Center was hosted by Mrs. Clarence Hendrickson in her home, accompanied by her beautiful Jewish nee, Mrs. Hendrickson. This is about the 15th year for the event which was inspired by Mrs. Hendrickson and other members of her sewing club. Mrs. Joseph Koenig, knitting, and Mrs. Charles Wagner, center, are this year's Indian Affairs co-chairmen, assisted by Mrs. William F. Stark. Mrs. Hendrickson is currently serving as national home life chairman. A special guest at the party was Mrs. Carleen Olson, IFWC's Indian Affairs chairman of Chicago. In the Chicago area there are over 10,000 American Indian residents which are served by the Indian Center.

Patch it up

The colorful look of patchwork design can be turned up everywhere in Christmas decoration. Here's how to make a patchwork cone tree for your coffee table.

Start with a plastic cone base in a cone shape. Look through your sewing basket for bright colored pieces of fabric in different patterns and textures. Use contrasting colors like pink, yellow and red to give the patchwork tree an early American air. Cut out the fabric scraps in squares and rectangles. Turn under raw edges and stitch them all around before gluing patches to the cone tree base. Trim the patchwork tree with loops of red cotton ball fringe.

Gift of a puppy makes for a lively Christmas

By Mary Lind

A special treat for Christmas is a pet that will bring happiness for many years. With the holiday only a few days away, it is still possible to buy a puppy at a local pet shop.

The hardest part is deciding on the kind of dog. Consider such things as size, income, living habits and taste of the person or family who will receive the dog.

Do they want a watchdog, a sturdy and patient playmate for children, a house dog companion for old age, a hunting dog, a show dog?

LARGE BREEDS need room and lots of exercise—a great place would be cramped in a small apartment, and a vet-ter needs wide country space to burn off excess energy. Lively terriers adapt easily to apartment life, but some are noisy and bighunting.

Toy breeds are spunky and affectionate companions for adults, but too fragile for a family of growing children. The great dane can be enormous; the stylized poodle must be professionally groomed. Some of the hounds will adapt to anything—except backyard confinement.

VINDICTIVE as much as you can about your puppy. If possible, look at one of his parents for a glimpse of his prospects. The breeder or attendant should be able to tell you a little about your pup, but more important, you should spend some time with him. The healthy puppy has clear, bright eyes and a cool, moist nose. He should be lively, aggressive and friendly. Avoid the shy, withdrawn pup. The best health insurance of all is to have the puppy examined by a veterinarian.

One problem with dogs is shedding. If you object to hair on your rug and furniture or on your good suits, don't get a collar or long-haired dog.

When buying a dog, be sure the whole family knows how to take care of it. Problem pups are the result of their owners' ignorance or misguided attempts at kindness.

THE FIRST THING to do with a new puppy is to make him feel at home by treating him gently, avoiding unnecessary and loud noises. Also be cautious with discipline. Build up his trust in you.

During the first few nights, a young pup misses its mother and litter mates. To comfort the pup, give him a small jar of warm water wrapped in a cloth to snuggle up to. Often a ticking alarm clock nearby will tell him to sleep, but be sure you don't leave the alarm set.

For food, feed small amounts of food four or five times a day—commercial dog food which are blended by experts to provide the balanced diet a young animal needs.

Housetraining a puppy is simple but important. It should be delegated to a younger, but be the responsibility of an adult or teenager. The average dog lives to be 12 years old—so take care in mind when you are shopping for a puppy to put under someone's Christmas tree. If that lucky person is a 12-year-old boy, he will be in his twenties and living gone from the hearth while your present still reigns in the household.

Scott asks law program in schools

Attorney General William F. Scott has called for a new program of legal education in Illinois schools. "To teach students the vital role legal principles play in protecting not only the lives of the people but every individual right a person has."

Addressing about 100 teachers attending a seminar in Chicago last Tuesday on "Legal Education," cosponsored by Scott and Cook County Superintendent of Schools Robert Hanrahan, Scott called for a new dimension in education.

We must teach young people their rights and responsibilities under the law," Scott said. "If we are to live by the letter of the law, we must give substance to the law through education."

In a letter, Attorney General pointed out that the majority of the social norms and standards are reflected and directed in common and statutory laws. Thus, legal education in the schools also will have broad social value in its dual complex and involved society he said.

"Many violations of the law stem from ignorance," Scott said. "I have often felt that those who act because of their ignorance would be better off if they knew the law and its consequences."

When you are fighting ignorance, you need the voice of the one community which has accepted the challenge as part of its professional calling—the educators of this state.

As Attorney General, Scott pledged the resources of his own office to aid the new legal education program.

He proposed utilizing assistant attorneys general and law clerks throughout Illinois as a law force to conduct special classes and seminars on the vital role law and order play in protecting lives and individual rights.

Christmas is always a special time of year—but it is particularly special for parents of small children. Until you have seen Christmas through the eyes of a child, you haven't really experienced this holiday.

You may have treasured your childhood memories of a dazzling Christmas tree with lots of colorful packages underneath; crisp white snow falling softly; choirs raising their voices in familiar carols; popcorn chains and candy canes.

But a mother and father who have seen Christmas

--in eager faces telling Santa Claus what they are wishing for

--in tiny shiny eyes seeing the "prettiest Christmas tree yet"

--in busy hands helping make gingerbread men to hang on the Christmas tree

-- in a crudely wrapped homemade present just for them have felt the magic and excitement of Christmas morning. They have been blessed with the opportunity to do something for someone else.

"He walks gift-laden, under ancient skies,
"Who lights the Christmas flame in children's eyes." ("Gift for Children" by Monroe)

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Antique world

There's much to identify Early American

By Des Jureo

Never has an antique with out some standard for comparison. Whether you are going to collect just a few choice pieces or a beautiful, the collected even in your most important asset if you look ahead at photos and examples, the good furniture one can very easily distinguish the good pieces from the mediocre.

Today's article will deal with American furniture. Old cabinet makers often used a combination of woods in one piece of furniture, because sometimes mahogany and the select native hard-woods would run low, and they had to use whatever else they had. Most of the time these different woods were used for the sides and the underbody.

NEW FACTS are being uncovered about American furniture every day. There are many fine American cabinet makers who have not been recognized. Where have we learned about some of the unknown? Old newspaper, court records and local histories have told us much.

Speaking of fine cabinetmakers have you seen some of the fine pieces made by Christian Volz? This wonderful Arlington Heights resident made beautiful furniture. The Arlington Heights Historical Society Museum has some. I know the Volz family, and I know that there are some choice pieces owned by some of the old-timers in town. Keep an eye out for garage sales, and you may come up with a piece made by Christian Volz.

One thing to remember is that age is not the only criterion for judging furniture. True beauty depends primarily on line and proportion. Each piece has internal evidence as to its authenticity. The three top aspects to help you recognize a true antique are line, proportion and internal evidence of genuineness.

Always look for marks made by the cabinetmaker's tools, patina, grain of wood, structure and line. One can do this only by understanding the old craftsmen and how they worked. Because of a highly organized apprentice system their methods were so uniform that nearly all early American furniture was similar in the way it was made. It was all produced with hand tools, so that no matter how careful the cabinetmaker he would leave his mark.

One cheerful note to remember is that the modern wage scale makes it too costly to make handmade copies. Buzz saws are used to make copies, and the mark of the buzz saw is very obvious.

Remember that the undersides, backs and interiors of all Early American furniture was left raw. Any piece that has stain, shellac or varnish in these places is suspect. It is either a reproduction or a reconstruction.

DO NOT BE frightened by white enamel paint or rather crude graining on a piece of furniture. During the 1890s and early 1900s the younger generation took some of their grandparents' hand-me-downs and painted every last inch with white enamel paint. Just prior to the 1900s, black walnut and yellow oak were the different parts of a piece to help the workman when he went to put together. When a workman made his numerals they were as individual as handwriting.

AS TO THE wood, remember that three-ply veneer is modern. Remember that chair legs and pedestals were always made from one piece.

Lastly, the marks of wear that cannot be reproduced can be noticed on the lower ends of legs, which will have achieved a high polish by having inlaid against a floor for many years. Fine little dents will be just above there, and there is no tool that can make them.

In our next article we will consider some of the hardware used and the character of the old cabinetmakers.

thematic furniture always had irregular ridges and hollows. Look across a piece toward the light or pass your fingers over the surface lightly, and the tracks of the old jack-plane will be seen or easily felt.

The saws used by the old workmen also had, and left, telltale marks. For correct work, rip-saws, worked vertically either by water power or by two men, left parallel straight scratches very different from the curved mark of the buzz saw. These traces can be found on the inside of tables, beds, the interior frames of desks and chests of drawers.

Other very common old marks are scratches left by the scribing file. These are usually found where corners are dovetailed together. And the most telltale of all are the Roman numerals scratched on the different parts of a piece to help the workman when he went to put together. When a workman made his numerals they were as individual as handwriting.

Early American antique furniture has inspired a booming business in modern copies, such as the pine buffet and hutch in 18th century style from King's American Saddle collection.

A blackout scene in costume watches

If you want the newest time-on-your-hands, go to the costume jewelry department of your favorite store and ask for the total blackout look. The wristwatches. And consider adding this to that Christmas list you should have ready soon.

Of the many variations, our favorite is a small shiny silver oval or round watch, its narrow black patent strap matching the black patent face and tiny silver hands the only hour indicators that is, no hour numerals. Most want-gone is an all black enameled case with face and strap in black, and even the hands in black enamel. For evening, there's a little watch case in gold bamboo or in rhinestones, with face and strap in black.

This exciting black-out watch fashion will have everyone watching!

Young artists hold a show

By Marilyn Shuman

The younger set was the center of attraction at Country Side gallery, 407 N. Vail St., Arlington Heights, Sunday, Dec. 14. Art students, ranging in age from 7 to 14, had a reception for about 100 parents, friends and well-wishers to open a showing of their work on the second floor of the gallery.

The show marked completion of the children's first 10-week course, which began last September. While they toured the gallery, visitors were served punch and cookies made by the students.

JUDY MCKEE, 1005 N. Harvard, Arlington Heights, taught all the fall children's courses, and the bright colors pop out of their paintings show her influence.

"I like to do some of the meaty projects in my classes that the classroom teacher with 30 students is afraid to attempt," Judy explained. "I try to give them free reign and let them make their own decisions."

Judy, who has been a teacher in District 25 for six years, teaches in the school system part time and handles a heavy schedule at Country Side Art Center.

HER STUDENTS get an introduction to many phases of art, as a tour through the exhibit shows. In one group, the students conducted experiments with color and material, building up small three-dimensional constructions, using paper, string and bits of wood. Besides conventional crayon or pen and ink drawings, the children painted in tempera, created African-influenced designs, and created large paper mache heads. They also exhibited dozens of their creations made with modeling clay, which were mixed.

One of the most successful projects displayed was a print-making project, where designs were drawn on the "master card" with Elmer's Glue and left to harden. This was then inked with a brayer and used to make prints.

Judy explained that she also tried to work some art appreciation talks into her schedule, but not so much that it would dampen her students' enthusiasm.

When we visited the gallery, registration was already being taken for the winter classes for children, which began Jan. 31. Judy will teach classes for 8 to 11-year-olds, and Ted Argonopolis will instruct the older children.

The children's exhibit will be on display at the Arlington Heights Public Library for the next month.

Son of Santa - for tired moms

By Gerry Walsh

The kitchen radio was blaring forth Christmas carols and I was cleaning the oven and the refrigerator at the same time. A mistake, but a necessary, due to the calendar which showed only four more days until Christmas. Ah, was I on the fifth batch of family wash, and I kept adding my last minute shopping list, which now filled two bags of newspaper.

I stopped abruptly in the middle of my many chores as I heard the sounds of footsteps on my roof. I corresponded? I ran out the back door into the soft snow and looked up. Couldn't see a thing. Then I ran back into the house as I heard a crash in the living room fireplace. I dashed in and what to my wondering eyes should appear but a handsome gentleman dressed all in red, both a well-shorn brown beard. His clothes looked like an apron and from his figure, He was smiling—and so handsome!

AN ELGIAN pipe he had clenched in his smile, and the small rings emitted were not at all alive.

Strangely, I had no fear, my sudden awareness of my own smile, unattractive appearance. I was wearing the uniform of working-at-home mothers everywhere—old stockings, shirt and bodice. "I know you're busy, honey," he said, as he took the pipe out of his mouth and smiled at me. "That's why I'm here—to help I'm the Son of Santa. I let my old man take care of the kids, and you've got to admit that he does a great job. I take over where he leaves off, and I help out the mothers. You need help now, at this time of year, don't you?"

THIS HANDSOME man was six feet tall, and as he stood staring at me with his hands on his slim hips, all I could think of was a movie star.

"You—help—the mothers," I stammered, and then my knees began to knock as I clutched at the side of the big chair.

"Don't panic dear. Think of it this way. I have inherited the spirit of Christmas from my father. I want to give you what you need most, more than milk or perfume or diamonds. What you need most is time at this time of the year, when you give so much to others. I can do anything that you need done, quickly, painlessly and at no cost. I am your Santa—give me your list."

"List... what... list... have a list?" I mumbled. I reached for the list on my kitchen bulletin board and handed it to him. He read it aloud slowly.

"Clean garage—enough trash—get ornaments from attic—clean oven—clear refrigerator—make Christmas centerpiece—bake more cookies—wash and iron good tablecloth—polish silver—do ironing—bring treat for neighbor."

"THANKS, little mother," he said. "I've seen shorter lists for one day, but then I've seen longer. They're all the same to me. Go sit down and read, or watch TV, or talk on the phone, or do what you want for a change—OK?"

I sat down and picked up a book, and I sat there in a soft chair without an interruption for two hours—imagine. He did everything on my list for the day, and extra things too—like dusting, vacuuming, scrubbing two bathrooms, cleaning the guest closet, picking up a room full of toys, shoveling the walks, walking the dog, washing the windows, and even starting the concrete for the driveway. Oh, yes, he also made homemade soup and rolls after he had finished the cookies.

"You're unbelievable—but now I do believe in you," I said with much gratitude.

"I've done nothing more than you mothers do every day," he replied.

"Right," I answered weakly. And laying a finger aside of his nose, and giving a nod, up the chimney he retired.

Your Weekly Horoscope

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Emotions run rampant in week ahead. Aries may meet. Passions as well as negative forces surround you. In fact, they vie for your attention. You may perhaps be a bit demanding. But those around you will jump to your bidding. They need of caution... don't overstep the case, lest your personal arrangement collapse like a house of cards.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): O Taurus, what are to become of you? If you think last week was a halter then hold a tight, because the week coming up will be dear pandemonium. A bit of organization is in order. Taurus. Emotional as well as financial.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): It's all up to you in week ahead. Gemini. Money matters as well as family matters. Avoid short-term gains. Think runs of long-range gains. You may have stepped in the past. Gemini. But in week ahead you should see a-b-a-b. On last day of week contact loved one.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You may want to have a good cry in week ahead, Moonchild. If so, go ahead. You'll feel better for it, and your tears will only sweeten the ground for the flowers which are sure to bloom in the week. As week progresses, be generous with those around you, but not fecklessly extravagant.

LEO (July 23-August 22): You are not aware of it Leo, but there is one who silently addresses you from a safe distance. This person may make feelings known in week ahead. Don't be shocked. Accept with grace. You can't help if it's happen to be a sex pot. On last day of week, call home.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22): Affairs seem to be confused in week ahead. Virgo. Take time to sort the world from the chaff and distill the pure. There is also demand. Watch your wallet on last two days of week. As week draws to a close you will feel urge to contact old pal. Do so. In phone.

LIRA (September 23-October 22): You may be accused of "moonbush" in week ahead. Libra. Pay no heed. Someone needs to be enlightened. Don't you? Make decisions remember: "The heart has reasons which the mind knows not." On last day of week have early.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21): You've certainly had your ups and downs in the past year. Scorpio, but in week ahead you just may find reward waiting. And more than the kind you may find in the Christmas season. Affairs. Relax and enjoy. Make important phone call on last day of week.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21): Wow, Sai, Sai, it really is your time. You'll be full of winter. And, gosh, use energy productively. For a change. Love you to bits. You before week is over. Ready? Get it. Go. Baby, go.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19): Absolutely wild week facing you Cap. Party, party, party. Are you up to it? Of course you are. Have fun, and have one of those.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18): Once again Aquarius, enough needs to be enlightened. Don't you EVER wait? An association which will now has been on a more or less intellectual level, just may turn into something else. Consider permanent fix on last day of week. Act accordingly. Otherwise, have fun.

PISCES (February 19-March 20): Frantic week ahead for you. You may as well know. However, if you leap your way about you and leave your nose out of the sauce, you just may survive.

Great gifts rise from bare beginnings

High go over to the hard ware store and to the land where bare beginnings of some wonderful gifts, reports the December issue of Seventeen. Here are some ideas to get your imagination going.

TRANSFORM a bread-board into a handy hang-up for tools. Assemble a hammer, pliers, screwdriver, tape-tacks-all the essentials a good carpenter (or even a handyman) can't do without. Arrange them on the board with a view to composition, and mount screws in strategic spots to serve as hangers. The bread-board can be shelved at the top or painted as a glowing color. You might add stick-on flowers or decals.

METAL KITCHEN gets right up the year when you turn them into your own version of Mexican picnicware. Latexes. Suspend a saucer and built-in the grill-ers, with the cord trailing through a hole drilled in the handle. To brighten the lighting effect, give them in groups of two or three.

TURN OUT a song little sewing kit that started life as a silverware tray. Mounted on the wall it offers tidy sections for scissors, needles, thread, thimbles.

MAKE a patchwork pillow cover from pot holders. Collect the brightest quilted ones you can find and patch them together.

SOLVE the shelf-space problem for a put-gar here or there little shelf for beauty aids. The special part: nail the shelf-wall, matching screw-jars in a row. The shelf, the jars are cool containers for bobby pins, hair clips, cotton pads, etc.

Any first step in building Santa's sleigh is making the sleigh seat or back. Slice off the end of the cake in a semi-circle, as shown in top photo. The extra cake, made from one-half of the better, should be frosted as is and is used to conserve your sleigh cake. Use a little butter-cream frosting to "glue" the sleigh back to the cake as is revealed on bottom photo. Then frost entire cake including the back sprinkling generously with shredded coconut before the icing dries.

Rejoice! It's Christmas

By Amy Frayman

"This is the day which the Lord has made; let us rejoice and be glad thereof." I try to find every day with this philosophy to live. 2nd Psalm 117.

Now that your shopping is done, gifts wrapped, cards mailed, house decorated and baking and cooking done, under control, please take the time to rejoice and enjoy the beauty and good will of Christmas.

At least, I hope your projects are all done now and you can relax. If things are under control at your house, perhaps you could try one of these suggestions.

START a family reading circle. Small children love to be read to and the older ones enjoy being the performer. You probably have your favorites, such as Dickens' "Christmas Carol," "The Night Before Christmas" and, of course, the Christmas story from the New Testament.

Other books your children might enjoy are: "Told Under the Christmas Tree," a collection of stories and poems; "The Animal's Christmas," edited by Anne Thayer Eaton; "Christmas on the Mayflower," by Wilma Flinn Hays; and the "Christmas Book of Legends and Stories," edited by Eva S. Senior and Alice I. Hazlett.

The library has a large collection of books suitable for holiday reading. It also has a nice selection of Christmas records which can be borrowed.

Or buy a new holiday record to add to your own collection. I notice that several local stores have special prices on some of them, including an album of "The Messiah."

Try to time a trip to Ramthurst to see there when one of the choirs goes in singing Christmas music. If your own shopping is done, you can really enjoy being out in the holiday crowds.

TAKE your family to see the annual Christmas tree exhibit at the Museum of Science and Industry. Each tree is decorated by a different national group. You might pick up some ornaments ideas for your own.

Speaking of trees, our own library has a beautiful tree bedecked with handmade ornaments. It's surprising to see how lovely paper doilies, stars and pine cones can be made.

You might like to start your own family Christmas carolers. Fill it with clippings of appropriate prose and poetry from newspapers and magazines.

While you're thinking of the true meaning of Christmas, share your happiness with others. Invite a lonely neighbor over to enjoy your tree, some coffee and cookies. Make allowance in your holiday budget for a gift to a charitable organization.

TO MAKE this Christmas really worthwhile, you might consider adopting a foreign child overseas. Your $10 or $15 contribution a month will make the difference of life or death to an abandoned young-

Here is one last suggestion to make Christmas more meaningful and which I'm sure your children will enjoy. At our house, we always start a holiday cake for dessert at Christmas Dinner. To celebrate the birthday of the Christ child, we always complete with a candle and the holiday song.

May you and your family have a Merry Christmas.

Bake a sleigh fit for Santa himself—a sumptuous pound cake chuck full of cherries and nuts.

As developed in the Test Kitchen of The Boston Herald-Examiner, this Sleigh Cake centerpiece is baked from a pound cake mix, enriched with 1 teaspoon vanilla and ½ cup each of chopped candied cherries and chopped nuts, and resting on candy cane "runners."

CHRISTMAS SLEIGH CAKE

1 package (1 pound, 1 ounce) pound cake mix
½ cup chopped candied cherries
½ cup chopped candied nuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
Mix cake according to package direction and add the candied cherries, nuts and vanilla. (Flavor the cherries and nuts to prevent them from falling to the bottom of the batter.)

Bake one mix in two 9-inch-by-5-inch-by-3-inch loaf pans. Use one cake for the "sleigh" cake; will help you conserve the centerpiece longer.

ASSEMBLY: At one end of the cake, cut out curved piece to form the back of the sleigh. Start 1½ inches from end, taper to ½ inch in center, and back to 1½ inches from other end.

Frost with generous, butter-type icing, starting from the outer end. Set back on front part and complete frosting. Sprinkle with shredded coconut. Decorate back with candied cherries and thin slices of candied pineapple.

A little decorating skill is all that's required to make this clever Christmas Sleigh Cake. Foundation for the centerpiece dessert is an easy-to-make pound cake.

Use four six-inch candy canes for chisel runners. Break the candy part from four canes. Place canes under cake.

The end of a tradition

By Louise Bates Ames, Ph.D.

One of the best ways to find out how children feel when they finally discover that the Santa Claus myth is only a myth is to ask them if we take their children's words at face value, and I often do, we see that the disillusionment of finding out that Santa isn't really is probably greatly exaggerated.

Most children seem to take it in their stride. Here's what some Connecticut boys and girls have to tell us.

"IT WAS about five years ago when I asked myself, 'Why do I believe in Santa Claus?' I was in first grade and almost everybody in my class kept saying that Santa Claus was a fake. I asked myself, 'Should I let my mother about my troubles or should I keep them to myself?' I finally decided it wasn't worth it to tell. After all she was my mother and I had to find out sometime."

"So I asked her and she told me how sorry she was that Santa was just an imaginary man, and that she and my father really gave the presents. I found this pretty amusing and began to laugh-to find out of your own parents being the fat jolly man riding on reindeer."

"I was mighty glad to find out the truth, but I hope all the little children in the world have as nice a time as I did believing in Santa Claus."

Another little girl says that she was about 8 when she stopped believing in Santa because she went into the living room and saw her parents putting presents under the tree. She says sadly, "I think it is kind of a lonely feeling not to believe in Santa any more because he is a child's best friend."

A BOY tells us, perhaps more calmly, "I don't really matter about finding out about Santa Claus. What really matters is all the presents you get." But another says, more touchingly, "Up until now I've been waiting for Santa to come."

Nights came Cat Panthers

By Linda Hamilton
Sports Editor

Prospect's Knights maintained their hold on the league lead Friday night as they easily defeated a coal Panther club at Glenbard North, 66-50.

Glenbard had won its first Mid-Suburban League game ever the previous Friday night in topped Clinton, a team which the week knocked off favored Forest Hill, but the Panthers of Bill Connors had little steam left and Prospect won in a cakewalk.

THE KNIGHTS were by their other returning veterans, Dave Landstam and Brad Rucker. Each had 14 points, and Landstam pulled down 10 rebounds with Rucker grabbing seven. Landstam re-signed his foul left ankle during the fight for the second quarter, but the injury was not serious and he returned to play most of the game.

Landstam's substitute was senior Chris Sales, who also ended in the victory. Sales picked up eight points on four field goals and had seven rebounds while not playing the full game.

The Knights jumped out to an early lead as Landstam rebounded a blocked shot by Casey Bush and put it in the basket. Rucker then followed with a rebound shot and then Sales returned the ball to Prospect's basket on a fast break. Glenbard turned the ball over and it was Rucker's turn to score.

The bowing Glenbard coach, Tom Sullivan, got attacked in the first period, missing all field goal attempts and ending the quarter with just three points to its credit. Glenbard started the half over no less than 6 times in the first quarter, four of those coming when a quick Prospect's fast break shot the ball.

SNIPER BOB Kline played a defensive game and the piffing parade with two in the first six minutes of play. Kline also blocked a shot by Anavasiu. Landstam and Rucker each blocked a shot in the first period and Landstam also took the ball twice.

The Knights weren't without their faults too as they missed 12 field goal attempts, but the eight they made plus a pair from the line by Rucker added up to an 18-4 quarter advantage.

Landstam turned his ankle on the jump ball and Sales entered the picture. Brenner is one of Prospect's long suits, and Sales once again proved his worth. He drew a foul, rebounded and made a long shot to help increase the Prospect lead to 24-7.

Then the Knights gave way to some of their own ideas when Glenbard began to get the ball on offense. But the Panthers couldn't hang onto the ball either as White and Rucker took the ball back in at Glenbard gave the ball three shots while Prospect lost it four in just one minute of play.

LENDSTAM and Sales put Prospect back in the groove with two 15-seconds. Rucker and Sales connected again and Rucker made another two from the line as Prospect topped out to a 34-19 halftime advantage.

Rucker's performance was especially pleasing as he had some trouble making his free throws this season. Friday night, the flashy senior made all six of his attempts at shooting to hit back his own side.

White started off the second half by stealing the ball. Landstam blocked an Anavasiu attempt and Kline did the same to George Sados before White took the ball away again. Terry Green made a layup, but then blocked the ball and then stole it again as the Knights finally got onto the scoreboard. They had gone 4:10 without making a field goal, but finally Lando led. Rucker, Sales and White combined to change that in just a minute. Prospect held a 46-30 lead going into the fourth quarter.

Landstam's only way of keeping close to that was five of seven free throws.

Anavasiu, however, finally got unblocked and hit three shots in a row from the line, but Landstam and Jeff Meiner also found their shooting eyes and each began to score.

Landstam made four quick points while Meiner hit three in a row and Prospect moved to a 17-point lead.

JACK FRITZCH entered the game and made three of four free throws and added free rebounds in the final four minutes as the Prospect sub outplayed Glenbard's first team. Doug Hays got into the game with three long baskets in a row, but he lost as Prospect's last score as the Knights missed their last eight field goal attempts.

The Knights are still new under coaching MacArthur Hays meeting in the Master Die Holiday Tournament Saturday at 1 p.m. They are co-leaders of the tournament with 10-10 records, both sport 3-0 records. The Knights will get a rough test upon returning, however, as they meet Forest View Jan. 9.

Viator Sealsons down Huskies, 84-10

Everybody got into the act as the Seals of St. Victor swamped Hersey, 44-10, in a swimming meet held at St. Victor's Friday night. The Huskies did slightly better on the freestyle event, falling 77-17.

In fairness to Hersey, a team with good potential in its first year, Seals coaches Charlie Monda and Jeff Cella agreed to use a swimmer only once wherever possible.

BILL GRENIER, Jim Campione, Steve Salerno and Rich Lynch opened things up with a win in the 200 and meter relay in the time of 1:48.0.

Gene O'Hara and John Dracoli kept things going by finishing second in the 200 free, ahead of Huskie Jeff LaFleur. O'Hara was clocked in 2:06.6.

George Hays followed with a win in the 200 medley in the time of 2:18.2. Victor's Steve Beltran was Hersey's Bruce Moran's 4th.

MARK SCHREIBT and Tom Gallagher got the crowd a thrill with a very close race in the 50 free. Seals' Sados was clocked in 24.7 and teammate Gallagher came in with a 24.8 timing. Dean Gowan was third for Hersey.

Terry McNeil and Jeff Hays were unopposed in the diving, and McNeil's total of 54.95 was enough to beat his Seals teammate.

Dave Lakatos picked up a win in the 100 butterfly, and Gowan got Hersey's only individual second of the night.

Gowan had a 1:07.1 time. James Moran placed third in the 100 freestyle.

JEFF "STRETCH" Lavin was the 100 free swimmer for Seals, and Dan Murphy was second. Vince O'Leary was third.

Victor in the 100 breaststroke, followed by Frank Lilly. Lilly was clocked in 2:10.1.

Lilly capped his almost perfect meet with John Driscoll. O'Hara, Murphy and Beltran won the 400 free relay in 3:59.8.

IF ONE had to pick an outstanding performer in the meet, it had to be Mike Richardson, who took two freestyle wins in the 100 and 200.

He won the 50 and the 100 freestyle in 25.4 and 59.9 respectively, upsetting a normally steady Seals.

Victor's second good swim from Mike "Bambi" Salerno in the 100 backstroke.

Confusion reigns over race for schools superintendent

By Jan Boese

No one knows today if there's one candidate or two—in the race for Cook County superintendent of schools.

Democratic candidate William R. Vernon of Chicago and Republican incumbent Robert P. Hanehan both have filed for the office—which keeps tabs on all Cook County suburban school districts. (Because of a new law signed by Gov. Ogilvie in September, Vernon may be ineligible to run.

THE LAW (House Bill 531) sponsored by Eugene Schickler, a Arlington Heights legislator, says that no one will be eligible to file his petition at any primary election for the nomination of candidate for the office of county superintendent of schools unless he meets certain specific qualifications.

Among them is a requirement that a candidate must hold either a valid administrative certificate, a valid state-supervisory certificate, or a valid administrative certificate with superintendent's endorsement.

Hanehan meets this requirement. But does Vernon?

Ray Page's Office of Public Instruction for the State of Illinois signed Vernon's eligibility certificate in December, saying Vernon had the educational qualifications necessary to hold the office.

NOW, HOWEVER, the head of the state teacher certification board says Vernon does not have two years of supervisory experience and does not hold a valid certificate to be a candidate.

Robert L. Brinsmead, the head of the board, said Vernon had completed academic requirements in a University of Chicago program for the administrative certificate.

"However," said Brinsmead, "we assumed that the University of Chicago had checked out Vernon's supervisory experience. Two years is a requirement."

Apparently they had not.

"UPON INQUIRY, the University of Chicago said they would return Vernon's enrollment card for the certificate."

The matter has been referred to our legal counsel.

Filing dates for the March primary closed last week. Officials of the Democratic Cook County Central Committee, and Vernon, could not be reached for comment on what the next political move will be.

Order issued to vacate Elk Grove Twp. shacks

By Bob Cancy

During hearings held yesterday by the Cook County Building and Zoning Department's compliance board, Raymond J. Webb, commissioner of building and zoning, ordered substandard dwellings on four Elk Grove Township properties vacated immediately.

The hearing was held as a result of inspections last week by a task force of county building, electrical and plumbing inspectors.

WEBB SAID after the hearing that he was "amazed" that such substandard housing existed in Cook County and promised to continue inspections and hearings to eliminate it. He said a spot survey of all areas in the county has been ordered by County Board President George Dunne.

Webb expect more hearings to take place. Webb said, "The inspections will be continued."

Ordered vacated yesterday were three shacks and a farmhouse on the Margaret Honke property, 1031 W. Higgins, and two shacks on the Edward Honke property, 1127 W. Higgins. Webb also ordered vacated two shacks on the George Goebbert property, 258 W. Higgins, and five shacks on the Sam Miller and Son Nursery property, 201 W. Touhy.

JOHN GARRITY, attorney for Margaret Honke and Edward Honke, told the compliance board that both property owners were willing to try the shacks destroyed as soon as possible. Garrity said Mrs. Honke would like the farmhouse on her property to remain standing because the property is scheduled to be reassigned in connection with the widening of Higgins Rd. He said the farm house would not be torn down.

Webb said the trailers would be removed.

100,000 shoppers jam Randhurst

More than 100,000 Christmas shoppers crowded into Randhurst Shopping Center Saturday and Sunday in what Paul Dumas, general manager of the center described as "the busiest weekend ever at Randhurst."

Dumas said the estimated throng of more than 80,000 Saturday night the single day record of 72,000 which was set at the end of Thanksgiving, 1967. "It's more difficult to make an accurate estimate of Sunday's crowd," Dumas explained, "because of the abbreviated business hours." He indicated, however, that it was at least 20,000.

"We are always told to create an atmosphere pleasant for shoppers," said Dumas. "We hope the shoppers will enjoy themselves and visit us again. (Full page of Randhurst Christmas photos on page 6.)"

Palatine Road safety meeting slated Dec. 30

The president of the Arlington Vista Homeowners Assn., Jim Krinsky, of 2027 Roosevelt, Arlington Heights, told The Day today that he has received a reply from Illinois highway division officials setting Dec. 30 as a tentative date for a meeting to discuss possible safety changes in the frontage road to the north of Palatine Rd., between Schenck Rd. and Windsor Dr.

Krinsky said that he received the letter from George March, district engineer of the Illinois Highway Department, who wrote after Ronald Nettles, 15 of 1631 Lake Ter., Arlington Heights, in the Arlington Vista subdivision, was fatally injured by a truck on the frontage road Dec. 12.

2-car crash causes injury

Hilda G. Kingley, 41, of Hanover Park, was slightly injured in a two-car crash yesterday morning at Arlington Heights and Central Road. Krinsky said a bylaw, drafted by the Arlington Vista Homeowners Assn., was signed by the Arlington Vista Homeowners Assn. in September to be closed to all traffic during morning and afternoon hours when children were going to and from MacArthur Junior High School.

Mr. Krinsky said the frontage road on the south side of Palatine Rd. Officials of the Illinois Highway Division are studying the road.

Auto stolen

A 1970 Cadillac valued at $4,000 was stolen yesterday afternoon from the new car service department of Mac, Cadillac Corp., 333 W. Rand Rd., Mount Prospect. The car was owned by English Motor Service Inc., 234 S. Forest, Palatine.

Mount Prospect police and Evanston got together to place James Coughley, 13, of 331 Western, Arlington Heights, late the five department houses. He was struck last night by an auto while he was riding south east in the northwest house on Rand Rd., near 110 E. Rand Rd. Coughley was later reported in satisfactory condition at Holy Family Hospital. (Photo by Dan...)

Snowfall snarls traffic, assures White Christmas

A change in the official U.S. Weather Bureau forecast at 5:05 a.m. this morning brought with it the prediction of an additional four inches of snow over the "four inches by noon Tuesday" prediction at 4 p.m. Monday.

The Monday forecast came, said one of the weather forecasters, as the result of a new system that had started in the Northern Rockies over the weekend to keep public work-

Illinois Bell tells best time to make holiday calls

Residents of the Northwest suburbs who are planning to make Christmas calls to loved ones and friends should try to make the calls before 8 a.m. and after 10 p.m., Gene Montgomery of Illinois Bell Telephone told The Day yesterday.

Every Christmas will naturally be a very busy time and the circuits are likely to be carrying a heavy load of calls.

"SEEMINGLY EVERYBODY wants to call on Christmas Day and this eventually ties up the network and the operators who must place some of these calls," he said.

"Customers will receive a better chance of completing their calls to relatives and friends if they would place calls either the day before or day after Christmas," Montgomery said.

If the calls are spread out during the holidays, customers should be reasonably certain of getting through, he said.

LOW RATES for operator hand calls goes into effect at 7 p.m. Wednesday and will remain in effect until 7 a.m. Friday.

Montgomery said, the lowest rates will be on local direct calls.

THE NEWLY proposed 11-year maturity schedule would call for payments by the District of $50,000 each year from 1971 through 1977, and $25,000 each year from 1978 through 1981. The would pay $25,000 each year during this time. Interest rate would be determined by the bids at Monday's meeting.

There will be no Thursday refuse pick-up by the Lakeside Sanitation Dept. due to the Christmas holiday. Residents affected by the Thursday route will have their next garbage pickup on Monday.

Cyclist, 13 struck by auto

James Coughley, 13, of 331 Western, Arlington Heights, was reported in satisfactory condition at Holy Family Hospital last night, after he was struck by an auto in front of 110 E. Rand Rd. in Mount Prospect earlier in the day.

Police said that a car driven by William Koser, 36 of Maywood, was proceeding west on Rand Rd. when it struck Coughley, who was riding his bicycle, out over to the left in which Koser was driving.

Coughley was struck by the car on the other side, Henry Street of 23 N. Evans, Arlington Heights, escaped unscathed.

County orders shacks on 4 properties vacated laid county zoning ordinance. Louis Archbold of Neighbors at Work (NAW), a local community group, told the compliance board that NAW has provided housing for four families that formerly lived in shacks on the 101 W. Higgins property. He said the families have been provided with rooms in local motels until adequate housing can be found for them.

Archbold said his group would provide housing for two families living at 1127 W. Higgins. They are the Jose Arosco family with three children and the Maria Tomo family with two children, he said.

Webb said he would send letters to the Elk Grove Village administration asking that the village's fire department destroy the shacks on both properties.

ACCORDING TO Edmund Kormowicz, the county's building violations supervisor, the 101 property had eight building code violations, five plumbing violations and eight electrical code violations.

Kormowicz said the 1127 W. Higgins property had eight building code violations, two plumbing violations and eight electrical code violations.

Webb said he would ask the state's attorney's office to seek destruction of the shacks on the 25 E. Algonquin and 201 W. Touhy properties and removal of house trailers from the properties.

KORMOWICZ TOLD the hearing that there were 56 building code violations, eight electrical violations and several plumbing code violations at 25 E. Algonquin and 201 W. Touhy there were also 56 building code violations as well as plumbing and electrical violations, he said.

W. R. Sullivan, attorney for George Goebert, 25 E. Algonquin, objected to the hearing, citing it a "harmless proceeding." He said he did not have time to confer with Goebert about the violations.

Robert Karson, attorney for Sam Miller, 201 W. Touhy, said the shacks should not be called shacks and that he "would appreciate them being labeled as dwelling units."

Mervin Davis, the county's chief north unit inspector, said the shacks on the Miller property were "in the most deplorable condition of any of the ones we have seen."

DAVIS SAID the shacks are not structurally sound and would have to be demolished. Located on the property are five substandard shacks and a house trailer.

Miller told the board by one of the shacks is occupied by an employee of his nursery and the other four are vacant. The house trailer is occupied by a person who works for him in the summer but is not now employed by him, he said.

Archbold said his group moved the six-member Anselmo DeLaGera family out of a shack on the Miller property. E because of a dangerous propane gas leak.

He said NAW would provide housing for anyone evicted from the Miller property. An offer of housing for the residents from the 25 E. Algonquin property has been received from the Congregational United Church of Christ, 1001 W. Kirchoff, Arlington Heights, Archbold said.

WELSH SAID he would also ask the state's attorney's office to seek demolition of the partially burned farmhouse at 1806 Landmeier, the site of a fire that killed three young children of the Juan Arosco family Nov. 29.

The county inspection also removed the Charles Kibben and Son Nursery property at 11 E. Algonquin. The property has been served code violations in dwellings on the property. Webb said the 11 E. Algonquin property is in the corner of Higgins and 11th Avenue, Arlington Heights and not under the jurisdiction of his department.

Safety council warns of drinking, driving

"It is a well-known fact that at least half of all traffic deaths involve alcohol and it is logical to assume that this percentage will increase during the coming holiday season," according to Howard Pike, president of the National Safety Council in Chicago.

"Ideally, if you are going to drink, it would be better if you don't drink at all," Pike said. "But if you do imbibe, do so in a manner that your coordination, eyesight, and common sense will not be impaired so that you can safely cope with the high hazards of the holidays such as unusually heavy traffic, poor weather conditions, and early darkness."

"I advise to choose either of these reasonable alternatives to avoid the high hazards of the holidays such as unusually heavy traffic, poor weather conditions, and early darkness."

Dolores Eiler and Jeanette Hodges of Arlington Heights got their two pretty heads together and decided that the time had come for Dolores to start working on a second career. Dolores is the dancing owner of the Dolores Eiler Dance Studio. At one time she danced and sang professionally.

The first step on the return journey was made by her when she brought some of her young students to the Chicago NBC Studios for a program. Dolores found herself on the Chuck McLean show.

Meanwhile, Jeanette, her friend volunteered to be her manager. While she was talking to someone from the Chicago Tonight Show, she was advised to be on. Another meet on the same program was made by her. Dolores was the female lead in the new James Bond movie.

Jeanette who is the executive director of the Harwood Detective Agency was surprised because the host of the show seemed more interested in her as a detective than he did in the make believe intrigue. Both girls appeared on the Head Lines Show on the McLean where they've spent the past week.

The next television appearance will be by Dolores on a Channel 26 newscast show. The exact date of the show will be announced. Things are breaking all around for the Arlington Heights women.

"It all began when Dolores said she'd like to go back into show business, either as a dancer or singer. And she said it to the right one, Jeanette."

Suburbs to have members on 5 Con-Con committees

By Richard Cobb

The northwest suburbs will have a member on five of the nine Con-Con committees that will rewrite the state constitution. Under the new convention rules, they will have an opportunity to debate the proposals of the other four committees.

Members of the Constitutional Convention from the northwest suburbs are awaiting their assignment to the vital Con-Con committees—the workhorses of the program for writing a new constitution. There are but nine of these committees. According to the rules adopted in the convention's final 1969 meeting last week, each member will work on one committee.

PRESIDENT SAMUEL W. Winer plans to announce the committees during the recess. It is probable that the announcement will not come until late this week or early next. Winer if also empowered to select the committee chairman and vice-chairmen.

Before the delegates left Springfield last week, Winer asked them each to list three committees on which they would like to serve. He asked that they be listed as first, second and third preferences. The five delegates from the northwest suburbs listed 15 preferences. Interestingly, they listed seven of the nine committees as follows: revenue, executive branch and judicial committee, three each; local government and education committee, two; and general government and amendment committees, one each.

NONE of the northwest delegates listed the committee on the Bill of Rights or the committee on the Legislature. Committee preferences were given by northwest delegates as follows:

Mrs. Anne Evans of Des Plaines (1) executive branch, (2) suffrage and constitutional amendment and (3) general government.

Mrs. Virginia Macdonald of Arlington Heights (1) judicial, (2) education and (3) revenue and finance.

Mrs. Jeanette Mullen of Barrington (1) revenue and finance, (2) local government and (3) executive branch. John G. Woods of Arlington Heights (1) local government, (2) revenue and finance and (3) judicial. Clyde Parker of Lincolnwood (1) education, (2) executive branch and (3) judicial.

vention sitting as a committee of the whole begins getting specific proposals in March.

MRS. VIRGINIA Macdonald hopes to be placed on the judicial committee. "There will be a need for lay persons on this committee," she said.

Mrs. Mullen of Barrington has strong preference for serving on the revenue and finance committee and she expects that the appointments will be made known in the next week. "It is my impression that Mr. Winer plans to send the committee assignments to the delegates during the holiday recess. The way will then be cleared for a prompt consideration and approval of the committee by the Convention Jan. 6."

WOODS WOULD feel equal at home on any of the three committees he listed for President Winer—revenue and finance, judicial or local government. "There's no question that that I feel I have a special contribution to make on the committee on local government," says Woods.

Clyde Parker hopes to be placed on the Education Committee. He had a long career as teacher and school administrator, having retired only recently as superintendent of an important school district in the northwest suburbs.

"I DID ASSURE President Winer that I would accept a position on one of the other committees, but there were difficulties in working out the appointments," Parker said.

"Since we are to be met as a committee of the whole to debate and consider every proposition, it is not nearly as important to find a place on the committee of the whole sessions. I am going to have my full say on educational matters anyway," he added.

Harper hosts planning meeting of college group

College administrators and trustees from Midwest states attended a planning meeting of the Assoc. of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges (AGUB) last week Friday at Harper College.

The AGUB formulated plans for a June meeting in Palestine with college administrators and trustees from five states.

Harper president Robert E. Lahl, trustee Mrs. Fred Nichols of Inverness and Dave Gough, assistant to the dean of continuing education, hosted the visitors.

College presidents and trustees attending the conference were: James McCarty, dean of Marshalltown Community College, Marshalltown, Iowa; John Rohrer, trustee.

Richard Carter, president, Missouri Area College, Pitt River, Mo.; Donald D. Fink, president, Montclair Community College, Edison, N.J.; Robert Calver, Michigan Council Community and College Administrators, Lansing, Mich.; and J. L. Zengle, AAGU executive vice president, Washington, D.C.

Such, the all good deeds, leaves the value of stopping often for a break from the pressures of holiday traffic. Some 15,000 motorists are co-operating with state and local public safety authorities in the National Coffee Safety Program's annual campaign to prevent accidents with free coffee breaks during Christmas and New Year's. L. S. Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe is honorary chairman of the effort. "If you're driving home for the holidays stop for a free coffee where you can get the free coffee stops. If you don't use one, stop anyway. The rest will help keep you alert and alive," adds Volpe.

This is a coco-nut.

Coco being kind, of course. And our girl-in-cantina being absolutely bawled over the look Coco started fifty years ago. But then, our girl is only one of many. Coco-nuts in cantinas are popping up all over the country. Some are buttoned. Some aren't. Some are knitted. (We call these sweaters.) Some aren't. (We call these just jackets.) And some are covers for glitzy dresses. Some are even covers for glitzy dresses that go all the way to the floor. But all, without exception, are long, lean and smashing. If you're a Coco-nut yourself, we recommend two things. (1) Catch the great musical about her on Broadway. (2) Come see her influence all through the store.

Novel wrappings can make the gift

NORWAY

Second grader Dan Kuley, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Kuley of Arlington Heights, is handing out the Christmas contents of Norway, Germany and Mexico this season at Greenwood School. Each year the Greenwood PTA's contented are committed to decorate trees in the homes of two or three foreign countries. This year Mrs. Jack Harvey and Mrs. Arnold Bohman decorated the Norwegian tree. Mrs. Richard Canda decorated a Mexican tree and Mrs. Lynn Anderson, PTA president, a German tree. Mrs. Robert Dahlstrom is entrusted with pictures at Greenwood.

By Lois Irwin

Certainly you have been faced with the problem of coming to the end of the festive wrapping paper. There are still packages to wrap. Do you panic? Hope not, because there is a store of novel wrappings in and around your own home that would delight and surprise anyone on Christmas morning.

In your hand right now is attractive wrapping paper, and a good sized piece, too. You can make a clever cover by using the sports page for a young boy or item, the financial page for Dad or the fashion page for Mom or a teenage girl. Even the comics will do for a toddler's present.

If they are the colorful Santa Claus sheet you will have no further decoration worries. For the black and white sheets use a red or green magic marker and underline or circle headlines, interesting letters, or use big arrows and comets. Just writing the name on in big bold letters is effective, and with a large bow placed on top, it's as attractive as the most expensive wrapping.

THE DRAWER in my kitchen provided me with a 12-by-14-inch green plastic garbage can liner. How perfect for those odd-shaped items you never can fit into a box. Put the gift first with newspaper so fingers can't poke, and then tuck it in the bag, tying it with a big bow. Red cellophane tape initials on the side will make it an eye-catcher.

Have you a kindergarten? Two or three pictures or finger paintings from the stack brought home since September would be the most beautiful wrapping ever tied around Kindergarten art.

Runnunge through the sewing box and you may come with a piece of tulle, velvet, corduroy or even upholstery material. Velvet ribbon or lace will do it up neatly and the recipient will certainly feel special.

THERE IS always the construction paper in the children's desk. Don't be afraid of color. Purple and orange can make a striking package. The roll of foil in the kitchen cupboard is a bit hard to work with, but shiny side out, it's beautiful. That bit of leftover wallpaper in the basement, flowered or striped, needs only a little imagination and it will turn into a perfect cover for some gift.

Magnifying covers or full page ads giving a clue to what's inside could be fun. Or a clever indication of the recipient's taste can be made by using a coffee can (plastic lid covered with a huge bow and taped on) for a coffee lover, a cigarette case for a heavy smoker, a candy box for the one with a sweet tooth.

Christmas is gift-buying season to tax all of our imagination. There are no limits. So it seems to be more ideas just waiting. So in a crisis, take a look around and wrap it up!

Help the homeless

Two Palatine women will be the first of the year of Christmas to homeless children through their work on the Christmas Stocking Appeal for the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society.

Christmas

Masse

A Christmas Mass, following the directions of the Council of Trent and Vatican II, will be offered at 10 a.m. on Dec. 25 at the Northwest Baptist Hall, 484 N. Central Ave. at Atlin, Chicago.

The traditional Latin Mass will be continued under the sponsorship of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, Chicago, with the Rev. Henry J. Lovett, pastor, and the Rev. Stanley Wajda, assistant. Services will be under the jurisdiction and protection of the sovereign Order of St. John of Jerusalem, Knights of Malta.

Mrs. Raymond Howland and Mrs. Guy Sorensen are serving on the 1959 committee for the annual appeal which has as its motto: "Let's make the traditional symbol of happy family holidays. Each December, the society mails this 'little red stocking' to local residents, urging them to help provide both a happy holiday and year-round care for children who cannot live in their own homes or have no home at all.

The society can be some 800 children of all races and religions this year. Services include adoption placements, foster family care, residential treatment, pre-adolescent and adolescent problems, counseling for children, and their families and help for unwed mothers.

One of the oldest and largest privately supported child welfare agencies in the state, the society has its headquarters in Chicago, with regional offices in Alton, Rockford and Urbana.

Remember those gifts for the kitchen

By Laurine Lemberry

Christmas is an ideal time for housewarming small appliances to make their tasks easier. Many of the new items on the market reflect the current interest in creative cooking, the popularity of coffee, high speed, and convenient and easy-to-operate appliances.

The following appliances are on sale at leading hardware, appliance and department stores. They range in price from $5 to $30.

The Country Electric introduced by The West Bend Co. is perfect for slow simmering foods such as soups, dried fruit, beans, etc. distributes heat quickly and evenly to stainless steel, aluminum, tin, porcelain, ceramic and glass serving utensils. The rivet is available in half-gallon of avocado or harvest with black phenolic trim to complement kitchen, buffet serving or table settings.

THE 12-ANCOUR round West Bend Country Skillet and the three and one-half quart Country Casserole are excellent for cooking as well as serving at the table. They are available in avocado or harvest green plastic finish, and black phenolic handles and cover knobs. Both are 11 inches in diameter and are completely immovable on any surface. The casserole is a handy unit for making puddings and casseroles. The "See N' Serve" copper pot by West Bend Co. pops out of the lid and automatically shuts off. The top flips over so the dome cover can be used as a serving tray. Rectangular Easy-Chill Fry Pan is deep enough for roasting meats and may be used for grilling, French roast or pan-fried sandwiches. Light sanding makes it available in one or two sizes. The 12-inch skillet is available in avocado or harvest green plastic finish. It features a high dome cover, and attractive cascade handle.

The answer to existing pans with little effort for the housewife is the new product, the Oster Company's control of heat Electric Fondue. The fondue pot is made of brass and gold or avocado has a Teflon interior for smooth cooking and easy cleaning. Included with the fondue pot are six color-coded keys with different colored tops for easy identification for the guests doing their own cooking.

Removable legs and handles combinations make storage easy.

Holiday happiness is fluffernutter

According to an unofficial source, in New England there are two kinds of sweet-tooth people. Those who go for Fluffernutter sandwiches that double-dip into a fluffy marshmallow cream and peanut butter on bread. And those who go for N'Vette's Fluffernutter cream, chocolate nut bar and marshmallow cream combination that goes in the range and has to be a blend of the most wonderful, creamy, crunchy delight imaginable.

Take these cookies for example. Fluffernutter's Mores start off with the same graham cracker. Then they're topped with a quick-pick peanut butter cream. And how about N'Vette's Fluffernutter? These are somewhat like nuttles, the candy "nutty" that contains chocolate and caramel and is topped with a peanut half. This cookie version starts off (again) with graham crackers. Each is topped with a caramel, baked, then spread with the rich chocolate marshmallow cream.

FlUFFERNUTTER SNOWIES 12 graham crackers 1 cup butter or margarine 1 cup packed dark brown sugar 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 cup chopped pecans 1 cup fluffy marshmallow cream Place graham crackers in single layer on foil-lined baking sheet. Combine butter, brown sugar and salt in saucepan. Cook over medium heat until mixture is melted. Spread evenly over graham crackers. Bake in 350 degree oven for 10 minutes. Remove from oven; spoon fluffy marshmallow cream on crackers. Serve warm or cold. Makes one dozen.

SNOWIE FLUFFERNUTTER 12 graham crackers 12 light colored candy corns 1/2 cup sweet-cream chocolate morsels 1/2 cup fluffy marshmallow cream 12 pecan halves Place graham crackers in single layer on foil-lined baking sheet. Place candy corns in center of each. Bake in 350 degree oven for 10 minutes. Remove from oven; spoon fluffy marshmallow cream on crackers. Sprinkle with pecan halves. Makes one dozen.

"Kandy Kanes for Kids" is the theme selected by the St. Peter Lutheran Junior High School Christmas Committee for their "Project this year. Recipients of their gift is the Children's Home of Northwestern Community Hospital. Bill Meyer, center, president of the council, accompanied by Lester Bush (right), president, presents a check for $200 to Jack Ryan (left), public relations director of the hospital. Junior high students decorated a tree in the school's library with candy canes, each one representing a 25-cent donation.

Enjoy the 'mess' of Christmas

By Gerry Walsh

The big day is almost here. Last-minute shopping seems greater than all the early shopping you did in advance, especially for your children. The budget is almost at a dead end! You have bought that expensive request the hawk, the hawk, the HO train; but you need something else to wrap attractively, to make a "pile" under the tree. Don't panic and run out and buy a bunch of junk that will be broken two days after Christmas. Something once said, "If you have only $5 to spend-buy a $5 bar of soap." However, that doesn't go for kids. The answer to the last-minute intensive child's gift is to buy something "messy" to keep that thought and you won't go wrong. Something messy is creative, stimulating and fun. Then give him his money place, and he will say (over that long Christmas vacation). "What! I do now?"

BELIEVE ME, messy stuff works. The only trouble is that most parents don't believe it, or they refuse to tolerate it. Consider the fun things that you do as a mother that are creative. You take (messy kitchen); you see the room is in chaos; you point (laughter) you write (my writing desk looks as if a big wind had hit it). So it goes. It's a fact of life that the fun things of life are messy, but they are fun for the child, a release from tension, a joy in creation. Living!

For a touch—last-minute Christmas gifts buy your child real fat, finger paints, poster paints, big boxes of crayons, blotter paper, paints, scissors, good wood working tool or construction paper.

FORGET the mechanical road with batteries and the plastic wind-up toys. In fact, roll up your sleeves and join your youngster in messing. The hurried holiday season will suddenly seem a much more joyful time.

Miniatures set the pepper

Cut three pounds of broiler-fry chicken wings in half; use meatier "drumstick" half for frying. Blend together 1/2 cup flour, 1/2 cup ground Parmesan cheese, 1 teaspoon Accent, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1/2 teaspoon pepper and 1/2 teaspoon dried oregano. Dip chicken pieces in 1/4 cup buttermilk, roll in ingredients in oil or shortening in electric fryer at 365 degrees for five minutes; drain. Keep warm in chafing dish. Makes 18.

Shoppers jam Randhurst; 'busiest weekend ever'

A record crowd of more than 80,000 Christmas shoppers jammed Randhurst Shopping Center Saturday, and shoppers' autos kept almost every parking place in the huge lot filled all day long. The flags of Illinois, the United States and Randhurst fly above the center and the Randhurst tower stands in the distance beyond the mass of autos. General Manager Paul Datta said the weekend crowds added up to "the busiest weekend ever at Randhurst."

For Shanks and Clevi Truffer of 1342 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights, the highlight of Saturday's Randhurst visit was a brief chat with the friendly old man with a white beard and red suit.

...which soon found their way into the hands of kids like Eddie Klee of 9501 Samoy, Des Plaines. Eddie found his way into the Randhurst Corporation office after he lost his mother, Jan, in one of the stores. Randhurst policeman Ed Munson kept the boy company until his mother picked him up.

A few shoppers paused briefly for a snack in the restaurant beneath the shopping center dome.

A long day of shopping proved to be a little bit too much for three-year-old Christine Langstaff of Carpentersville. Her mother, Gloria, rests on a bench behind Christine's bed of Christmas gifts.

John Kunkeloff of Hersey looks for a place to pass the ball as he is met by most of the Mundeletts. The Huskies earned the right to advance in their own tournament with a win over the team.

Hersey advances in own frosh tourney; West, Grove ousted

By Linda Hamilton
Sports Editor

Hersey was the only one of three from the area to advance to today's semi-final rounds of the Hersey Freshman Basketball Tournament. The Huskies whipped Mundeletts, 46-40, in the final game last night to earn the right to play this morning at 11.

Ken Carter's orange and brown-clored squad used big Greg Hale effectively as he towered over the opposing Mustangs, snatching rebounds right and left and showing a nice touch on shots from the inside.

MAINE WEST dropped a heartbreaker to conference rival Deerfield, 47-43, but the little Warriors of Bob Goerne put up a valiant fight.

Goerne held the lead at the end of the first and second periods, but the Mustangs came out of the third, and then came back to lead with just a few previous minutes left in the game.

But, as luck would have it, Deerfield found the mark on some clutch free throws and began to pull ahead.

The Deerfield boys led by two, then three as Maine just couldn't get the range, despite a couple of free throws. When it came down to the last second, the Deerfield Warriors had put 12 points on the board in the fourth period while Maine managed nine.

Chris Bouché led the Dea Plains team in scoring last night with 12, but Deerfield's 19-point man took the scoring honors. Mark Edholm had nine for Maine as he put up a fine exhibit of free throw shooting, making seven of nine. Mark Drych added eight points in the losing cause.

EARLIER IN the night, Elk Grove had received a sound defeat at the hands of Burlington, 42-33. Scott Downey was the leading scorer for the Grays with 14. Two other team players tied with 12 apiece for second.

The Grizzlies were outscored in each quarter by the Broncos, who met Maine South this morning at 9:30.

The winning Huskies got balanced scoring from five players, although Hale was the big gun with 17 points. John Taganred and Al Hibel both had eight points while John Kunkeloff earned seven and Scott Mendeletts six.

THE OPPOSING Mustangs of Mundeletts relied on Chuck Smith for 16 points as Tom Kunkelstar for 12.

The Huskies solved a Mustang dilemma and got inside for most of their successful shots in the first half, and the rebounding of Hale kept the ball in possession of the host team. Hersey opened up a big lead at the first quarter but Mundeletts came back to make it close in the final three periods.

Hersey met Deerfield this morning at 11, and if they got past the Warriors they play tonight at 8:15. If Hersey got by, they will play for third place at 7.

John Taganred (32) takes off for a layup off for a layup off for the victory. Hale was the big gun with 17 points. John Taganred and Al Hibel both had eight points while John Kunkeloff earned seven and Scott Mendeletts six.

St. Mary's and St. Emily's duel in Lion tourney

In the St. Viator Freshman Basketball Tournament this weekend, the consolation bracket was won by St. Mary's, who defeated St. Columbian, 28-27.

Twenty-four points by St. Mary's was enough to edge the 32 points of leading St. Columbian. Prospects: Heights St. Alphonsus scored 32 points to beat the 27 points by St. Peter's and St. Joseph's scored in 39 points over St. Michael's.

IN THE WINNING bracket, Saint Maria scored 42 points to knock off St. Thomas of Villanova who could get only 28.

Saint Mary's scored 48 points over the 30 points of Mount Prospect's St. Emily. Tom O'Donnell scored 19 points for the winners.

Saturday soon will see the first game between St. Mary's and St. Emily's, at the Viator Gym.

Vikes adjust to Palatine defense; record 69-65 win

By Mike Needelman

In last Friday's basketball schedule, the Vikings of William Fremd High School skinned by the arch-rival Palatine Pirates by a 69-65 score, to leave many Pirate fans and players very unhappy at the game's end.

Fremd, being one of the running teams in the MSL in Palatine coach Norm Jones' eyes, succeeded in breaking through the strategic "Box and One" defense Jones and the Palatine squad put into use during the game.

PALATINE KNEW that with a running game that Fremd would probably turn out to be hazardous, and the Vikings would be making shots from every inch of the upper court. But to put the "box and one" into correct use would keep opposing players out of the free throw lane and not allow in any sure shots.

Jones said that his team would have a better chance with the game if they could hold Fremd to shooting from the outside instead of the inside.

The "box and one" defense is also designed to put pressure on the man who is considered to be most instrumental in the winning of the game. Mike Kule was the man that Palatine wanted to hold away from the boards. Kule was covered by one man, while the other four defensive Pirates were spread out into a four-point zone around the free throw line.

BUT NOLZE overcame the "box and one" by setting up his teammates for shots. Bob Moloznik came in good for 17 points which included three free throws, and Rick Grasse hit the double figures with 12. Kule also contributed to the scoring spree by dropping in a very honorable 16 points.

IN THE DRIVING relay, St. Victor drove, Henry McCue and Jeff Hamm collected 125.55 points, 75.05 points behind winning Marmion.

Mark Savage, Don Glover, Bob Rathman and Dick Fitzsimmons put the Seasons back on the right track by winning the frosh-kup 200 free relay in 1:39.41, a second off the St. Victor team record.

Steve Salerno, Takata and Hale followed with a victory over a tough Naperville entry in the 200 free relay relay, fourtime was timed in 3:04.2.

Naperville continued to make things interesting for Victor, winning the 300 backstroke relay. The Seasons trio of Dan Burns, Ed Schellack and Tom Gallagher was also surprised by St. Patrick, and the three placed third in 3:20.8.

Marmion got its second win of the meet at the expense of Randy Robertson, Harrison and Campena in the 300 breaststroke relay, despite a fine 3:36.5 clocking for Victor.

Jim Fitzsimmons, Gene O'Hara, Stretch Lavin and Rick Lynch capped things off by winning the 400-yard freestyle relay in 3:36.5.

For the Pirates, Dave Hachbick zipped in and out through the Fremd defense to get himself 29 points for the night. In the process he picked up nine free throws out of 10 attempts. Jeff Alpage helped out in the losing cause by adding 14 points for the Pirates.

Palatine had its quarter game in the fourth quarter in which they got 24 big points and held Fremd to only 17. This was the only quarter that Palatine scored better than the Vikings in the game.

And in spite of the surge, the Pirates found themselves down at the end of the game by 17.

The win left the Vikings tied for third place in the MSL, and dropped Palatine further into the cellar at 0-3.

Sealions roll in Marmion swim meet

Taking over of 11 events, a great team effort helped St. Victor's Sealions to win the First Annual Marmion Military Academy Invitational Swim Relay held at Marmion Saturday. Notre Dame placed fifth.

Victor won by 40 points over second-place Naperville as the Seasons earned 132 points to Naperville's 121. Marmion was third with 84. St. Patrick was fourth with 32. Notre Dame had 52 and Ottawa was sixth with 32.

NEARLY EVERYONE on the squad had a hand in the victory, because the competitors were limited to two relay apiece. It was such a team effort that the "Bill Cells Cap Award," which usually is voted to the outstanding Section in a meet, was given to Coach Charlie McDuffy vote of the team.

Victor started out in typical fashion, setting a new pool record in the 200 medley relay in 1:51.5. Bill Givner, Tom Harrison and Dave Takata got a lead that anchorman Jeff "Stretch" Lavin was increasing at the end of the race.

Marmion nearly won the next event, the 500-yard freestyle relay. After Mark Schellack and Gene O'Hara held the three placed third in 3:20.8.

Marmion got its second win of the meet at the expense of Randy Robertson, Harrison and Campena in the 300 breaststroke relay, despite a fine 3:36.5 clocking for Victor.

Jim Fitzsimmons, Gene O'Hara, Stretch Lavin and Rick Lynch capped things off by winning the 400-yard freestyle relay in 3:36.5.

even, George Hale got a lead for anchorman Rich Lynch, who held off a determined effort by Marmion's Gary Brock. The winning Seasons were timed in 4:07.2.

Naperville ended the Victor winning streak in the 400 individual medley relay. The Season quartet of Jim Campena, Jeff Vernon, Bill Givner and Steve Salerno were second in 4:16.5, nearly seconds off the meet.

IN THE DRIVING relay, St. Victor drove, Henry McCue and Jeff Hamm collected 125.55 points, 75.05 points behind winning Marmion.

Mark Savage, Don Glover, Bob Rathman and Dick Fitzsimmons put the Seasons back on the right track by winning the frosh-kup 200 free relay in 1:39.41, a second off the St. Victor team record.

Rep. Chapman reappointed to Ill. Commission on Status of Women

By Richard Crabb
June, 1967, after the General Assembly reviewed and approved the work of two temporary bodies during the four previous years. The commission may investigate or clear.

21 plows clear streets, but snow keeps falling

The Arlington Public Works Department had its plows trucks out at 11 p.m. Monday night as the snow, about nine inches, began to fall.

"It takes about four hours to plow the streets in Arlington Heights, barring any break-downs," said Gene Wilfong, director of public works.

He said that by the time the trucks were through plowing they had to start over.

Many of the 21-truck force were on the third time around plowing the streets as of 4 p.m. yesterday, Wilfong said.

The men have been working in shifts, said Wilfong, and will continue to work until the storm ends.

"Each truck is assigned a particular zone," he said. "One time they start at one end of the route and the next time at the other end," he said.

Wilfong did not have information on the amount of salt already spread.

He is especially pleased to continue his work with the "Commission of the Status of Women." Mrs. Chapman said yesterday, "My major interest in the Legislature has centered on education and child advancement. Education and home matters are so closely associated with the major interests of Illinois women that I am proud to have my leadership on the status of women commission help me in all of my legislative work."

Mrs. Chapman was House sponsor of a successful bill embodying one of the recommendations of the commission. Approved by the governor, this measure provides for enhanced financial grants to state not-for-profit day care centers which meet state standards.

THE ILLINOIS Commission on the Status of Women was formally permanently in session today.

Metropolitan Sanitary Board budget-record $124 million

By Ben Clarke

The Metropolitan Sanitary Board of Greater Chicago (MSB) passed a record budget of $124 million yesterday with the only trustee who voted against the budget, George Thiem, calling the annual appropriation bill "inflationary."

Said Thiem, "The levels of salaries have increased more than I feel is necessary to obtain good people."

He added, "We are not helping each other and this budget should be less than it is."

Schlickman query reveals tax inequities in school districts

The Illinois Legislative Council reported Tuesday that widespread inequities in the tax assessments exist in the Cook County line.

Rep. Eugene Schlickman (Arlington Heights) initiated the inquiry to determine whether an inequity assessment was being made in the Barrington school districts which serve both Cook and Lake County areas.

Barrington is the only school district confronted with this problem," Schlickman told the Day yesterday.

"The Legislative Council's report shows that there are overlapping county boundaries in 101 of the 102 counties of Illinois."

THE QUESTIONS raised were so complicated that Schlickman may ask the Constitutional Convention to consider resolving the problem in the future.

The neighbors at work (NAW) of Elk Grove Village are currently staying in motel here room was found for them after they were evicted.

Julie Fass, of Elk Grove Village, a member of NAW said the eight families are currently staying in motel here room was found for them after they were evicted.

SHE SAID that possibly two more families will be evicted this week and if that happens the NAW will provide a place for them to go on Christmas Day.

On the following Saturday, she said the NAW will have a dinner for the families. They will have chicken dinner that was donated by the Little Red Hen Country Chicken restaurant in Elk Grove Village, she said.

The families include from 25 to 30 children, ranging in age from 2 months to 10 years. Four boxes of toys from the Toys for Tots were given to the NAW to distribute to the children for Christmas.

Mrs. Fass said the NAW has not found a place for the dinner to be held but they are hopeful.

Disabled train stalls commuters

A disabled Chicago & North Western Ry. freight train northwest of Barrington delayed rush hour commuters yesterday morning for about an hour. A spokesman for North Western explained that a coupling on a freight car broke during the early morning hours and caused a delay of trains until that track.

Melan, chairman of the finance committee, disagreed. "I feel that this budget we passed was a wise move. It is not inflationary to reduce the budget had been available for viewing by the public at the MSD headquarters at 100 E. Erie in Chicago for some time."

A LARGE amount of the increases went into higher salaries for both regular employees and "outsiders" working on special projects for MSD, but being paid salaries by MSD.

Board president John Egan said MSD may be coming to the record rather than being read by him.

Said Egan, "The time has come for the federal and state governments to match or exceed district funds to accommodate the job for all time, (referring to water pollution).

"THE STATE of Illinois should revise its billion dollar pure water bill, deficient in last year's election."

Egan referred to the $380 million given for referendum approval last year, as "a $380 million ticket to carry on the job during the next seven to 10 years."

Mentioning that the devalued billion dollar pure water bill, Egan said, "It will take all of that money and more to effect a lasting solution."

"If an adequate amount of money is not provided, then we will face a decade of decadence rather than progress in the 70's."

Egan said that in the meantime the $380 million bond funds would be spent "wisely."

The first issue, $20 million, series December, 1969, has been sold and is committed to water and land reclamation, and air pollution control projects for 1970.

Sale of $60 million in bonds each year for the next six years is the district's plan to implement its 10 year cleanup and flood control program.

Said Egan, "We hope that an act of Congress will provide enough funds to put us over the top. The present $300 million federal anti-pollution bill would reduce the President in January."

Egan SAID that the $10 billion program to control pollution throughout the nation, as proposed by the Secretary of the Interior, Walter J. Hickel last Wednesday, "is much more realistic."

Among the "important projects" in the 10-year program that Egan mentioned were:

—Cleanup of 71 miles of waterways under the district's jurisdiction.

—Installation of new interceptor sewers to carry the increased volume of wastes from communities that are constantly growing in population and industry.

SIMON SUBURB SAYS:

Merry Christmas, Peace on Earth, Goodwill to man—all races, creeds and colors.

—cooperation with the City of Chicago's underflow drainage system to alleviate storm overflows over a 300 square-mile area.

—Implementation of a land reclamation project, using digested sludge from treatment plants for agricultural benefits.

—A final solution to the air pollution problem that the next year's Sanitary District taxes should be "approximately flat" than the average amount of the past ten years.

Egan said that the bond issues would be estimated at 16 per cent tax reduction for 1970 to an estimated 28.2 cents per $100 of equalized assessed real estate valuation.

Egan said that a tax abatement of $651,630 levied this year will result in a three per cent of one cent reduction in the 1969 tax rate of 34 cents, and would reduce the district's annual budget tax rate has been reduced in 1967 and 1970.

NOTING that some $17 million had been spent during the past year, approximately $30 million. These included the new sewer bill "in record time" of six months to accommodate Harper College.

Egan said that the district's bonded indebtedness has been reduced from $141 million in 1962, to approximately $30 million by Jan. 1, 1970.

He gave special mention to the approval given by the 1969 Illinois General Assembly to the district's request to issue general obligation notes for bond financing of day-to-day operations.

Among the "important projects" in the 10-year program that Egan mentioned were:

—Cleanup of 71 miles of waterways under the district's jurisdiction.

—Installation of new interceptor sewers to carry the increased volume of wastes from communities that are constantly growing in population and industry.

Day light

By Joseph Stuenkel

It's easily forgotten that the first Christmas dawned with no prolonged immediate build up, local publicity, festive fanfare.

We have become so conditioned to the annual celebration of the birthday of Christ that we expect the conclusion of shopping days to Dec. 25 to remind us that Christmas is close at hand.

WHILE The coming of the Messiah had been foretold and was awaited longingly for centuries, the actual announcement of the birth of the Infant King was fabled to a woman wrapped literally and symbolically in slumber.

A few shepherds watching their flocks were the first to hear the angels' message.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men of good will."

OTHER VERSIONS render the passage "peace to men of good will" or "peace and good will to men" or "peace among men with whom He is pleased."

This finale to the midnight message rounded out the "tidings of great joy" which the herald angel uttered to the shepherds, and through them, to all generations since, that "this day is born to you a Savior."

That this is the way the announcement went is vouched for by St. Luke the evangelist who penned the gospel bearing his name sometime before A.D. 63. None of the other three evangelists detailed the scene of Christ's birth.

LITURGY SPECIFICALLY writes in the opening phrases of his gospel that he set out to provide an orderly narrative.

That the early Christians grasped the significance is unfortunately obscured by the same process that has gradually turned Christmas into a highly commercialized day, with lip service paid to Christ's birthday, and a need of the head to the "peace and good will" idea. As far back as the pontificate of St. Telephorus (A.D. 125-134), that bishop inserted the "Gloria in excelsis" in the Midnight Mass service.

What does all this have to do with our own celebration of Christmas? Well, all those centuries ago, when Telephorus insisted on calling attention to the importance of the original "peace and good will" message, the Roman empire was going through a vast social change. Christians were proposing the brotherhood of man and wanting to live according to theories that struck the ruling class as both blasphemous and highly treasonable.

HAS OUR world changed so much since then? The message continues to be spread, once a year, at any rate. Just how many individuals, much less nations, actually use it as a guideline for behavior is another matter entirely. After all, while we like to think of Christmas as a universal feast, how many members of the United Nations, for instance, are not holders of the Christian ethic, and hence look on the day as just another festive one?

George Santayana wrote once that "the single star is not shared with a cold glitter. The Star of Bethlehem does not shine with a cold glitter, but with a warm glow to enrich the wintry night."

If we think back to Luke's narrative of the first Christmas message, we can find our spirits heartened by the presence of the herds whose sudden appearance alerted first the shepherds, then all men, to a timeless code of life.

EACH CHRISTMAS, an honored place in our home reserved for a Christmas message of the late and beloved Pope John XXIII. In this troubled world of ours, what better re-creating of the original Christmas message than his words:

"May Christ enlighten the will of all, so that they may overcome the barriers that divide, cherish the bonds of unity, and pardon those who have done them wrong."

Sudden vision to remind us of the urgency of the single Word.

Perhaps, however, it isn't asking too much of oneself to ponder the thought of peace in 20 to 40 years days until next Christmas again glows in sudden glory.

"From my world to yours — merry, merry Christmas!"

Des Plaines man heads Illinois Retail Merchants

Hugh H. Muncy, of 180 N. Wolf, Des Plaines, has been elected president of the Illinois Retail Merchants Assn. It was announced Friday by the Association's Board Chairman, Robert L. Kraft, executive vice president and Chicago branch manager, Lerner Stores Corp.

"IRMA Directors," Kraft said, "were unanimous in their choice of Muncy to succeed Joe Meek as president and chief executive officer on Jan. 1. Muncy's service as executive vice president and general manager, intimate knowledge of Illinois retailing and IRMA operations provide the ideal background for this Association's leadership position at a time when the needs of merchants are changing rapidly.

The opportunities to effectively serve consumer interests of the state and work closely with government agencies at all levels through an effective articulate association with ne-tive retail membership support have never provided a greater challenge which IRMA must prepare to meet as we enter the '70's."

Muncy, who has been a member of the IRMA executive staff since the founding of the association in 1957, was associated with the Illinois Chain Store, which is executive manager. Other business experience was gained in the fields of public relations and radio broadcasting.

DOCTOR SAYS

Report to obstetrician any toxemia symptoms

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—Is Toxemia of pregnancy common? What can be done to prevent it?

A—The toxemia of pregnancy includes a variety of symptoms: vomiting that simple morning sickness, acute yellow atrophy of the liver and edema. Although they are the common complications of pregnancy, prompt recognition and treatment will usually permit the delivery of a live, full-term baby by a live, healthy mother. The best prevention is regular visits to your obstetrician during early in pregnancy and reporting all symptoms to him without delay, especially nausea, vomiting, headache, swelling of the ankles, jaundice or blurred vision.

Q—What causes placenta previa?

A—In this condition, the placenta is located near or over the outlet of the uterus. The cause is unknown but it occurs in a woman who has had six or more children or who has endometriosis (inflammation of the uterus). It is often associated with serious hemorrhage.

Q—What causes a hydramnios?

A—This term is a recurrence of the word "water." It is a condition in which a woman has a large amount of amniotic fluid around the fetus.

Q—This tumor is an abnormal form of pregnancy. It occurs chiefly in women who are over 35 or who have had previous pregnancies and cannot never occur.

Q—What has placenta previa?

A—Chlorosis is the drug of choice. If this fails, methemoglobinemia with quinine followed by a course of plasmapheresis usually brings about a cure.

LISTENS TO YOU

Dear Reader: 1969. With all the turmoil of events that have brought high schools and college students into the news, it's late Christmas. It's possible to be very cynical. If you are, it's a terrible mistake.

There are now more than 28 million teen-agers in the U.S. 30 per cent of the population is under 20. In a few years they'll be running everything. They are our only real hope for the future.

I suspect they'll do something about the things they've been talking about for so long. They seem to understand why a rich land like ours isn't a war, but in which we've lost more than 40,000 men. Imagine, 40,000 men who will never work, love or laugh again.

It might be that they'll want to win, but even drink enough that they'll do something about the Vietnam and Cuba.

COLLEGE instructors tell us that the students are going to be top scientists. That means they'll find ways to end pollution in the air.

You'll be kidding yourself if you don't think they'll find ways to close the poverty gap. (That doesn't mean collecting canned goods, which is important now.) They're not about to see people go hungry. They don't seem to understand why a rich land like ours is so poor.

Most importantly, they're not big game. They accept people as they are. That means they'll probably find a solution to the constant problem of race relations. Wouldn't that be wonderful?

Because of the teen-agers and young adults, it will be an especially happy Christmas. I hope you believe in them, as I do. If you don't trust them, there's nothing left.

Merry Christmas.

In making your calls during the holidays, you are competing with millions of other holiday callers and occasional delays may occur. If this happens on your call, please make it again after a reasonable interval.

Christmas at the Governor's Mansion

By Dolores Haugh

Christmas in the Governor's mansion is as exciting as your own.

The first lady of the state, Mrs. Richard B. Ogilvie, invited this writer to luncheon at the mansion last week. As we chatted happily over delicious salad, chicken à la king, ice cream and coffee under the brilliant crystal chandeliers in the state dining room, she related her decorating plans.

"I REALLY did not do too much this year because of our plans for the restoration of the building. I did order the two big Christmas trees. These are artificial because of the safety features," Mrs. Ogilvie began.

Placed throughout the huge rooms in the mansion were many bright scarlet poinsettias and silver urns filled with fresh greenery.

The front of the mansion boasted garland after garland of pine entwining the tall Gothic columns at the entranceway.

"I will make notes this year and do more next year," she said. "After dark is a good time to decide on next year's lighting."

"Deck and I will not be here for Christmas," Dorothy said, "but if we were there would be the usual holiday menu of roast turkey, cranberry sauce and mince pie."

"We eat in the formal dining room every day except Sunday," she pointed and explained. "That is the day I cook, and then we eat in the kitchen."

MRS. OGILVIE excitedly spoke of the plans for the mansion restoration.

"There is no definite appropriation as yet, but we are planning ahead. I work with the state historians who restored the Old State Capitol Building, Jim Hickey and Earl Henderson."

"Recently we had to have some repairs in the cellar and a large portion of the wall was opened. I stopped them from just plastering it up because you could see the original foundation the rocks and the wooden work above them. The historians were delighted when they could identify these original architectural foundations."

"I HAVE not done much with the individual rooms. I said if we are to have them restored it would be money wasted. I feel that when the time comes that money can be used for draperies and furniture. Instead I have taken on the project of restoring the clocks."

There is a lovely French clock which dates back to the 16th century, its chime sounds like a small music box. The majestic grandfather clock booms in the center hall near the stairwell, and in the state dining room a beautiful pair of gold cupids pose high on the marble mantel.

"I found the cupids separately stored in the basement," she continued.

No record has been kept on the history of these clocks, but each will be placed by an expert within the appropriate eras and recorded for future cataloging.

"THERE ARE no original plans of the old mansion," the governor's wife said. "If we could find them it would be most helpful, but as far as we know they were all destroyed by fire. Unless someone has them buried in an attic, all of the restoration will have to be researched."

"I would like to have the same procedure followed here in the state capital as followed at the White House. That is, all items purchased or received as gifts are cataloged and stored. Then when a new lady of the house arrives she may redecorate; the entire house, drawing from those things of historical significance, and refurbish the mansion to suit her own personality."

The rooms of the mansion, though big and beautiful, are somewhat of a hodgepodge in their decor. There is a wide collection of modern, French provincial, Chippendale and other periods. Some excellent pieces of porcelain dating back to the 1700s were mounted as lamps in the living quarters by one of the governor's wives. Their true value was completely overlooked.

MRS. OGILVIE has collected many items and has them under glass, lock and key. Up until now no one has had the inclination or the determination to "get the mansion organized." Mrs. Ogilvie will be the one to do it, for she has deep concern for the preservation of the state's history.

"I supposed everyone was very provoked with me when I refused to have the wings built and the old carriage house torn down, but I felt that these wings would just obliterate the original lines of the building, and when I went through the carriage house, I discovered that by just opening up two more entrances in the wall area there would be plenty of room for two more cars."

The recent part of sharing Christmas at the mansion was that the governor's lady has the same problems decorating the trees as we do. The light clips did not go together and after the trees were all up and decorated in the huge room it was discovered that they were too tall.

"I just can't face taking them down to shorten the trunks this year," Mrs. Ogilvie confided, "so they will have to hunch a little at the ceiling."

Garlands of pine and brightly colored lights encircle the huge gothic columns at the entrance to the Governor's Mansion in Springfield, echoing the message of those within: "Merry Christmas to all."

Mrs. Richard B. Ogilvie finds Christmas in the executive mansion as happy an experience as at her home in Northbrook. The twin Christmas trees are artificial because of safety features but add the look of the season to the huge rooms of the governor's home.

On Christmas morning breakfast comes second

Breakfast ought to be special on Christmas morning, but nobody wants to spend much time in the kitchen. With a bit of imagination and preplanning, you can save a festive meal with a minimum of preparation. In this menu, Curious Fruit Wedges topped with Cranberry Sherbet Garnished with Santa, Holly or Mint.

Hot Butter Fry of Sausage Links on Pineapple Rounds, Canadian Bacon and Bacon Curls.

French Toast Trees or Waffles with Strawberry in the Snow Topping.

Coffee or Hot Chocolate. Much of the preparation can be done the day before. The head of the French toast trees can be cut and the topping prepared. The sherbet should be scooped and in the freezer, and the table can be set up, ready to go. The fully cooked bacon and the pork sausage links can be heated in the oven. That way, little winning will be necessary. Then, all you have to do is cook the French toast or waffles.

If you're serving breakfast instead of breakfast, add a chutney dish of scrambled eggs, a handsome fruit bread and a winter festival to help the returning sun gain strength.

French's miraculous Star is a tiny candle, glowing lights have a glow over holiday festivities for centuries. Fifth sun-worshippers lit candles and kindled fires at winter festivals to help the returning sun gain strength.

BAKED CANADIAN

Place 1 1/2-inch-thick slices of Canadian-style bacon on rack in shallow baking pan. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) until done and browned, 20 to 25 minutes. Turn links after 15 minutes baking. (To cook brown-and-serve links, heat to desired on package label.)

BAKED BACON

Separate bacon slices and arrange on rack in shallow pan. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) until done and browned, 20 to 25 minutes. Turn links after 15 minutes baking. (To cook brown-and-serve links, heat to desired on package label.)

BAKED PORK SAUSAGE LINKS

Arrange links one inch apart on rack in shallow baking pan. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) until done and browned, 20 to 25 minutes. Turn links after 15 minutes baking. (To cook brown-and-serve links, heat to desired on package label.)

FRENCH TOAST TREES

Cut one loaf day-old unsliced bread into 1/2-inch thick. Cut trees from center of slices with cookie cutter. Dip trees into favorite French toast mixture; fry in hot fat over moderate heat until brown on first side; turn, brown second side. (French toast mixture combine 3 eggs, 1/2 cup milk, 1 teaspoon sugar and 1/2 teaspoon salt; beat slightly.) Yield enough for eight trees.

STRAWBERRIES-IN-THE-SNOW TOPPING

Defrost frozen, sliced, sweetened strawberries until berries separate and juice melts. Fold 1/2 cup coconut into 2 cups whipped dessert topping, sweetened whipped or sour cream. Spoon berries and cream, as desired, over French toast or waffles.

This festive holiday breakfast is planned to keep kitchen time to a minimum on Christmas morning.

Holiday greetings

Throughout the area this season members of the Arlington Heights Garden Club have been busily making their own holiday decorations. Mrs. Henry W. Park, left, made a fruit laden door wreath as her greeting card to neighbors.

A golden velvet bow, below, suspends a straw and wheat wreath from the beam ceiling of the Wesley Gallatin dining room. Mrs. Galitz made the wreath and designed this setting which is representative of the gifts of the Three Kings. The Blues also used a design of the wreath on their Christmas cards, which they mock print by hand.

Bluebirds to carol

Two groups of Rolling Meadows Bluebirds will demonstrate their Christmas spirit with an evening of Christmas caroling on Dec. 23. The Bay Area and the Morning Glories will meet at the Rolling Meadows bank at 7 p.m. and go caroling through the Rolling Meadows shopping center, and the surrounding community. Hot chocolate and doughnuts will cap the evening.

Stars, candles cast glow over holidays

Traditional for both light and warmth is the blazing Yule log. Like all "Christmas lights," it has both a religious and a festive significance in holiday lore.

Because legend says that the Christ Child was washed and dressed beside an ash wood fire, the people of early England always had Yule logs of ash wood. Ash had a practical aspect, too, because it was the only green wood which would burn.

The Yule log of England and continental Europe was often believed to have mystical powers to protect the home. To give this protection, the Yule log had to be kept burning all through the 12 days of Christmas.

ions meet Rebels in opening round

By George Hahn

Although St. Victor has had success in the past, Lion head basketball coach Ed Wawelwski is not optimistic about his team's chances in the Notre Dame Holiday Tournament this year. They play Ridgeview Friday night.

Last year, led by tournament MVP Dave Ertel, the Lions stripped the field and took second in the touring Admirals in close to highly touted Farragut in late game.

FRIDAY is not back in this year, and the only starters returning from last year's tournament team are Jerry Cullen and Dave Kelle. Without Don Reing (for Dave and Jack Brown), the Lions are not as full as it, percent as last season's.

Wawelwski also says the tournament is up as a hindrance to the Lions hopes for repeating their performance. "I was lucky enough to get past Ridgeview," the Victor men's coach said. "We have to play the winner of the Farragut-Tech game." He went on to say that the Farragut-Tech game will probably be a ragout, because the Admirals appear to be just as strong as last year.

Wawelwski does not wish the thought of playing Admirals in the tourney's second round. "They gave us a high halftime score," he said, "and there's no reason to believe that they won't do the same this year."

ONE FACTOR that might help the Lions through the tournament is the fact that the squad is back at full strength.

Wawelwski said, "It's (often) back in, and Kelle is jumping as well as it he ever has." Junior guard Bob Reel has completely recovered from the flu, which sidelined him in early last week.

The Ridgeview squad that the Lions face in the first game should prove to be no obstacle for Victor, although they do not take any opponents lightly. Ridgeview has one win in seven outings.

Wawelwski says that a team effort has been the squad's strongest point this season. "I made this statement before, and I'll stick with it," he said. "I think balanced scoring has been the key to our game. It has certainly been a team effort."

Wawelwski's statements reflected the Lions' fine performance in their last outing at Marne, a 68-50 win last Saturday.

Though Kukk was the game's standout with 17 points and 24 rebounds, Mark Keen added 14 points as did Mike Petruzzano and Reel added 12. The Lions also got good games from Cullen and Steve Carley.

Even though it was his team's finest showing of the season, Wawelwski wasn't overly enthusiastic with it. "Well, they haven't been doing that well," he began, "and you expect your team to look great against a weak team."

THE LIONS starting lineup will be the same as it has been, with Kukk at center, Cullen and Reel at the point spots and Keen and Petruzzano at the forwards. Carley should see some action, as should Joe Trawinski.

Cards and Demons kick off DeKalb matches

Sixteen high school basketball teams will travel to DeKalb County to participate in one of the state's top ranked annual holiday tournaments. Arlington and Maine East will be the two DeKalb area representatives as these squads each will play on Friday, the opening day of the event.

The competition will be rough as Kankland, Spangrue, Morton East, Hinsdale Central, Lindholm, Bellevue, Rochelle, Lincoln, and Crystal Lake, St. Charles, and DeKalb high schools will light it out for the coveted championship trophy.

Starting for the Blue Demons Friday afternoon will be Mike Mauer at center, senior Dale DeHamps, and Jay Woodson at forwards, and Bob Reumann and Jack Cronin as guards.

Wiggins holds confidence in his young club and has not dismissed the idea of bringing the Wildcats from his mind. "If we can pull an upset by beating Evanson it would be great. But even if we get beat, there is a good possibility we can win the consolation bracket."

The tourney also features a winner's consolation bracket, making a team that has been defeated on the first day take one more and possibly take the second-place trophy.

Mat talk By Dick Mudge

Wrestling official

Congratulations are in order for coach Bruce Ames, and his Prospect wrestling team which won its 10th holiday tournament over the week end. The 151st spread between the two players in the largest team total.

cal will usually spot the wrestler, even though one of them remains "in bounds" and the wrestler in the center of the mat. When one wrestler is pinning another, wrestling shall continue as long as both shoulders of the wrestler being pinned are "in bounds."

PLEASANT surprise to a recent wrestling meet was a congratulatory note directed to coach Jack Culp and his Arlington Cubs. It seems an official had admitted made some delectable calls and respected coach Culp and his team for remaining thoroughly calm and courteous.

According to the penalty chart in the rulebook, all penalties for any infraction are accumulative, including overtime. In the case of stalling or unsportsmanlike conduct, there will be a warning given first. In the case of illegal holds, the offender will be penalized. If the offender is again penalized, the offender is disqualified.

Next year's coaches have committed on situations that have occurred in recent meets and tournaments, and I thought I might mention them some of the questions that have come up. When a wrestler is "in bounds" or "out-of-bounds" how many yards in must occur before a wrestler is disqualified?

In the case of unsportsmanlike conduct, the first penalty is a disqualification. If the offender is again penalized, the offender is disqualified. If the offender is again penalized, the offender is disqualified.

Our National Rules Committee has suggested that an official try to determine when the offender is in control in order for him to point out a gain or neutral position. If the offensive wrestler has lost control, his opponent is awarded one point for an escape. Wrestlers can still be in contact with one another, but once again, if the offensive wrestler has lost control, the escape point should be awarded.

Whenever possible, it is certainly advisable that the best school, particularly in tournament situations, provide for a doctor to be in attendance.

If a wrestler has his supporting points (muscle) supporting points are hands, feet and knees inside the boundary line, contestants are considered "in bounds." It should be noted that when there is no action taking place, an official will usually spot the wrestler, even though one of them remains "in bounds" and the wrestler in the center of the mat. When one wrestler is pinning another, wrestling shall continue as long as both shoulders of the wrestler being pinned are "in bounds."

playing the Wildcats proposed a problem for Card head coach George Zigmant as he said, "We're playing the No. 1 team in the tournament first off. One good thing is about this is it will provide some good experience for our youngsters. I realize it is a real good, but it will be a good challenge."

The Cardinals quarter will consist of junior Mike Mauer at center, senior Dale DeHamps, and Jay Woodson at forwards, and Bob Reumann and Jack Cronin as guards.

Devils leave 9 records at East

Hinsdale Central came to the new Maine East swimming pool and before they left, the state's number one tank team had set new pool records in 11 events, sweeping their hosts, 75-20.

The only swim spot in the Hinsdale clutch was the diving of Mike Sedgo as the Demons senior established the one record not checked up on the record book Devils during the meet as he faked off 150.70 points in his springboard effort.

By the time Sedgo took the board, Hinsdale's team total was already at 28 while Maine could gather only six points in four races.

After Sedgo's effort the score read, 32-11, but from that point Hinsdale raced against the clock in posting the 55-57 point.

Unsolicited merchandise in mails cause for concern

Responding to a flood of concerned pre-Christmas inquiries, Attorney General William J. Scott has issued a statewide consumer bulletin concerning unsolicited credit cards and unsolicited merchandise mailed to the public.

Most of the concern, Scott said, centered on charge account credit cards sent through the mails to consumers who did not want the charge cards, nor did they request or apply for them.

Scott said that one Springfield resident received four unsolicited credit cards in three days last week.

ASSISTANT Attorney General Michael J. Schaeffer, Chief of Scott's consumer protection division, underscored the problem in this way:

"Not only are people concerned about their personal liability, but they are aware that if these unsolicited cards are lost or stolen, staggering bills can be run up against people who didn't want the card in the first place."

"We know from Congressional investigations and criminal cases in Illinois that organized crime used to pay $100 and up for stolen credit cards and then spend their way across the country, charging thousands of dollars in merchandise and lodging."

"But the concern of the average citizen is simply 'What do I do about credit I don't want?'" those who receive unsolicited charge cards. Under the law, a person is not liable for credit card purchases if he did not apply for or request the charge card and if neither he nor any member of his family benefits from any purchases made with the card.

Liability only begins when the receiver of the card signs it. If it has a signature panel, or uses the card to make a purchase.

Simply because the person who receives an unsolicited credit card fails to destroy it or return it, does not in any way indicate that the individual accepts the card.

INDIVIDUALS WHO do accept unsolicited cards or who request such cards are also protected by the law against misuse by the issuer of the card. Illinois statutes set a ceiling on the amount of liability against the person in whose name the card was issued, should the card be illegally used by unauthorized persons.

The liability limit for a charge card without a signature panel is $25, and for cards that require signatures the maximum liability is $75. Additionally, the burden of proof in such cases lies with the firm that issued the credit card.

In the case of unsigned and unsolicited charge cards, the most effective safeguard is simply to mutilate or destroy the card immediately after it is received, Schaeffer said.

"CREDIT CARDS are a great convenience for a great

Dick and Jane lose out to Rudolph 'til Christmas

By Joe Bone

Sally, Dick, Jane and Puff got second billing this month in reading classes at Carl Sandburg School.

Words on the "let's talk about" list for December were Christmas words like Santa and Rudolph.

CHILDREN ALSO learned to spell winter, snow, cold, Christmas, mittens, snowman, ice, wreaths, toys, holly, and candy canes.

Boys in Mrs. Finch's first-grade class at the Rolling Meadows school worked industriously with scissors the teacher's pointed ones as a special sign of their maturity, cutting out sections of red and white tape to a cardboard chimney.

THE CHIMNEY was a trading post last month; it may well be a rocket launching pad in January.

Billy Daebel and Don Kerck worked carefully with glue bottles, carefully making wreaths as a take-home present for parents.

And Meghan had math problems about Christmas cookies while Lisa colored and cut out a paper Santa.

Tree and stocking silhouettes were used to count off days on the calendar as children looked forward to vacation.

"Merry Christmas" was the school-wide theme!

Planning these Christmas decorations took lots of thought and concentration! Marc Chen, 2004 Hank C. Rolling Meadows, a first-grade student in Mrs. Finch's class, made a cardboard chimney for Santa. Last month, the "chimney" was a trading post in a unit on Indians and frontier.

'Give consideration,' Motor Club urges

The Chicago Motor Club-AAA urges pedestrians and motorists alike to "give consideration" for Christmas.

Gerald W. Cavanaugh, motor club president, emphasized that the Christmas holiday period is the most dangerous time of the year for anyone driving or walking.

"Traffic accidents always increase during this season," he said, "but if all motorists agree to obey traffic signals and practice courtesy at all times there will be no reason for anyone's joyous Christmas holiday to be marred because of a needless traffic accident."

Cavanaugh urged pedestrians to obey traffic signals and cross the street only at intersections.

He asked motorists to adjust their driving to road conditions; to signal well in advance of stopping, turning or changing traffic lanes; to keep a safe distance behind the car ahead; and to drive at a speed consistent with conditions.

"And if you're having a party," he said, "remember to be a friend as well as a host. Show consideration for guests who will be driving by emphasizing loud, rather than alcoholic traffic lanes; to keep a safe distance behind the car ahead; and to drive at a speed consistent with conditions."

Richard E. Strabo, 463 N. Plac St., Mount Prospect, has been installed as Master of Evan Lebow, 524 A.F. & A.M. Strabo has been an active member of the Masons since 1963 and is the youngest Master of the lodge in 193 years.

Holiday Inn coffee safety stop program

Holiday Inn, Algonquin Rd., Rolling Meadows, will be one of many Holiday Inn's across the nation helping to prevent accidents with a Coffee Safety Stop Program offer the holidays.

"Taking time out for coffee after facing long lines of bright headlights will relieve the strain and help prevent the drowsiness which overtakes so many drivers after dark," said R. C. Conklin, innkeeper at the Rolling Meadows Holiday Inn.

Holiday Inn will be offering free coffee to anyone who stops by their restaurant or coffee shop.

The objective, said Co. is, is to use the coffee as an incentive to get people off the highways for rest breaks.

Library to show painter's work

The Arlington Heights Memorial Library will display art paintings by Mrs. Mireille A. Tetter for a month beginning Jan. 3.

Miriam Tetter, who moved with her husband from France to Wheeling in August, is a product of the Paris school of painting. Her work is realistic, "but sometimes I play and do something different," she said.

Miriam Tetter studied at the Academie Julian and La Grande Chaumiere, both in Paris, and tutored by Yves Bryner, professor at Les Beaux Arts de Paris.

Several French galleries have displayed her paintings. Paintings on display at the library can be purchased. The exhibition is her first in America.

Tomorrow Is Today

By Joseph DeLuise

The law of cause and effect is put into action by man. It is he who produces the effect by first acting out the cause, and when the effect becomes apparent, man tries to console himself by offering explanations or excuses for his actions and viewpoints. When man produces the out-going action, he little realizes that this is only the beginning of the action. The action, in completing its mission, is like that of a curve or a boomerang which returns to the thrower. The returning action is then known as reaction. It is interesting to note that there is an equilibrium between the action and the reaction.

When the action and the reaction have completed their course in the world of self-consciousness, we have Karma.

The people of ancient civilizations portrayed Karma by the symbol of a serpent swallowing its own tail.

To be continued Friday

Dear Mr. DeLuise:

My folks would like to retire but have been unsuccessful in selling their small business. Do you see any hope for them in the near future? Also, my husband is not content in his present position. Do you see any change for him?

Mr. D.J.T., Arlington Heights

Dear Mrs. D.J.T.:

I feel your problem will sell his business by next fall. I definitely feel a change for your husband, but not for at least another seven months.

Dear Mr. DeLuise:

After much deliberation my husband and I are going to sell our house and move into an apartment. I am also considering transferring from one department to another where I am employed. Are we making the right moves and how long will it take to sell our house?

G.N., Des Plaines

Dear G.N.:

I don't see you selling your house immediately. I feel good with your move at work. Later I feel you may be changing jobs completely, perhaps in about two years.

Dear Mr. DeLuise:

Will be like to make my husband come to see my side? It is as now, impossible for me as I sense everything about him and the things he does. Can I and my husband make something of our home? Can we do it, as we are having problems with his brother and don't know what to do.

E.A.S., Elk Grove Village

Dear E.A.S.:

I do feel your problem will continue but I see you adjusting to them.

Dear Mr. DeLuise:

My husband and I have been hardworking people for our lives. Now we're "up in age" and my husband is rather poor health although still working. I am so afraid of the future. I have a ticket in the "Swaps World." Will this be a lucky number?

M.M., Des Plaines

Dear M.M.:

Will be like to make my husband come to see my side? It is as now, impossible for me as I sense everything about him and the things he does. Can I and my husband make something of our home? Can we do it, as we are having problems with his brother and don't know what to do.

Driver's license re-examination tests knowledge of traffic laws

(This is the second of two articles by the Illinois State Bar Association dealing with the state's re-examination program for licensed drivers.)

Do you know enough about Illinois traffic laws to pass your driver's license re-examination?

According to the Illinois State Bar Association, many drivers who thought they knew all the answers are flunking the re-examination which is now required of all licensed drivers every nine years.

As part of the state's retesting program, you could receive a notice to report for re-examination the next time your license comes up for renewal. Even if you receive a notice that your license will be renewed automatically, upon application and payment of the $8 license fee, your turn for re-examination will come later.

The examination for licensed drivers is the same as the one given to first-time applicants for a driver's license, except that licensed drivers may or may not be required to take the "outside" road test of their driving skills.

The "inside" test is mandatory. It includes an extended test to see you can see well enough, with or without corrective eye lenses, to drive safely and a written test.

The written test is in two parts. One tests your ability to identify traffic signs by their shapes and understand their meaning; the subject of the first article in this two-part series. The other part of the test deals with traffic laws and consists of 25 multiple choice questions, 20 of which must be answered correctly if you are to score a passing grade.

To test your present knowledge of traffic laws, the ISBA has devised the following quiz which includes questions which are similar to, if not the same as, those appearing on the official test. Of the 10 questions, the ISBA says you should be able to answer at least eight correctly (Correct answers are given at the end of the article).

1. Upon hearing the siren of an approaching emergency vehicle you should (a) slow down and (b) pull to the side of the road and stop. (c) Keep going but yield right of way. 2. You must turn on the headlights of your car (a) within one hour after sunset (b) at sunset. 3. You have moved into an intersection and stopped preparatory to making a left turn when the light changes from green to red. You must: (a) back up to clear the intersection; (b) remain stopped so the traffic can move around you; (c) proceed with caution to make your turn.

4. When traveling on a two-lane highway traffic moving in both directions, you may not pass another vehicle if you are approaching a railroad crossing within: (a) 300 feet; (b) 200 feet; (c) 100 feet.

5. A solid yellow line on your side of the white center line on the road means: (a) use caution when passing; (b) you may not pass.

6. You must use the appropriate turn signal to indicate your plans to change lanes on a highway or to pull into a traffic lane from a parallel parked position: (a) True (b) False.

7. At any street intersection, where there are no traffic control devices, you must yield the right of way to pedestrian using a marked or unmarked crosswalk: (a) True (b) False.

8. The maximum allowable speed on a rural highway where there is no speed limit posted is: (a) 55 mph; (b) 60 mph; (c) 65 mph.

9. Vehicles traveling in the right hand (outside) lane of an express, limited-access highway have the right of way over vehicles coming into their lane from an access road that merges with it: (a) True (b) False.

10. When planning to make a right or left turn within a business or residential district you should display the appropriate turn signal continuously before turning for: (a) 100 feet; (b) 200 feet.

(ANSWERS: 1-b); 2-b); 3-b); 4-b); 5-b); 6-a); 7-a); 8-b); 9-b); 10-b); 11-b); 12-b); 13-b); 14-b); 15-b); 16-b); 17-b); 18-b); 19-b); 20-b); 21-b); 22-b); 23-b); 24-b); 25-b); 26-b); 27-b); 28-b); 29-b); Day by Day

The Day after

By Catherine O'Donnell

Don't know what it was like in your neighborhood, but Public Works Director George Wilcox must have had his men out early as the snow as far as catching a bus at 8 a.m. the trucks were cutting paths through the deep snow for early morning motorists on Tuesday morning. It was quite a contrast from neighboring villages where traffic was totally stalled.

One favorite story of the pre-season concerns a preschooler who goes to nursery school. The teacher had learned him for long hours for the annual Christmas performance to be given for parents. This nice little blonde boy of three to four learned every line of "Silent Night, Holy Night." In fact he did so well that the teacher decided to start off the entertainment with his number. She gave him a flourishing introduction and the pianist began. In a loud voice, Mr. Four To Five announced, "I am going to sing that one first." Instead he started with a number belonging to another preschooler.

When he finished, he did another and another and went right through the entire program by himself. What happened with the others was anticipated. And "I always thought of him as being so quiet," his teacher was still muttering to herself on Christmas Day.

Village Urethane Group Burlington fell in love with one of the pretty Alaskan pups at the Pet Palace. When he went in and asked how much that doggie in the window, he couldn't hear to separate the pretty little pup from his brother who he bought both. His wife, Davy, is a patient gal, but one of the pups is going to be relative as a Christmas gift.

From a holiday household to a two dogger was too much. Much.

Miss Zimmack of E Campbell took time out from her Christmas eve stolen making the family car until he finished his own on the yard. "Finishing him at the end of the yard," means that the leaves have to be raked, gathered, and hauled. The poor little kid just got too busy and now the snow has fallen, he had a big school dance on Saturday night and now he's out there in the stuffy winter garb throwing kids as a passing car was Margaret Parker.

One source of all information says that the new legal holiday on Monday schedule does not start until 1971 but Mae would like some sort of an arrangement to be made. "I just don't understand it," she went on. "Before all the hullabaloo of signing the contract with Laetke, the men just worked harder for two days and kept the collections on schedule."

"Who," asked the biology teacher at Prospect High School, "knows anything about gerbils?" Up shot the hand of her own, Sandy Huggs. She said, she said, she owns two. Well, the upshot of that conversation was that the Huggs family of E. Edward in Mount Prospect is entertaining six gerbils over the Christmas holidays. That is an addition to their own two who are delighted. "Oh," breathed her mother, Prospect Day Women's Page officer, "you teach them to be generous and what do you get? Eight gerbils for Christmas."

Christmas Night in Arlington Heights was unusually dark. It just seemed as if everything had gone wrong as the lights on their houses became dimmer as the increase in looks into on vandalism. There are more stories about the holiday season. One high schooler is kicking himself. It seems his dad decided that he would not be allowed to

A week's vacation for two at Nassau in the Bahamas Islands is in the books for Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Benjamin, 218 N. Derbyshire Ln., Arlington Heights. Mrs. Benjamin receives a complimentary kiss from her husband after she was selected the "outstanding employee" of Forest Hospital, Des Plaines. A member of the private psychiatric hospital's public relations department, she was chosen for the January holiday by vote of a special committee of hospital department heads.

Navy controls Nike base land

Without the "pearly fence" at the Arlington Heights Army Air Defense Command Base the number of radar units has decreased from five, to three, to one. But also within the fence is some 40 acres of land belonging to the United States Navy.

The government once owned the land, said Commander Edward Sullivan, Public Information Officer at Great Lakes Naval Training Center. "The Army used it and declared it surplus."

"Other federal agencies could take it over," he said. "The Navy wanted to use the land for government housing."

COMMANDER SULLIVAN said the Navy has asked the government for money to build housing units for personnel from Glenview Naval Air Station.

"We indicated the desire to use the land put money into a storm drainage system; and had an architect and engineering study for a housing development," said Commander Sullivan.

With that, the Navy asked the government for the money for the housing. "We were turned down."

Therefore, the Navy has no immediate plans, but will still try for a housing development, he said.

THOUGH the Navy has no immediate plans, the Arlington Heights Park District would like the land for a possible golf course, admitted Park Board member John Edwards.

"We keep inquiring about the status of the land," said Thomas Thornton, director of Parks and Recreation. "As soon as the military declares the land surplus we will make an offer for it."

"A few months ago we made an offer to the Pentagon," said Thornton, "about the status of the land. The Pentagon said there was no change and the land is needed for the defense of the country."

The park district and the village might do anything about the land at this time. L. A. Hanson, village manager said, "We do not have any jurisdiction over the federal government."

Garbage compactors promiserelief from problem

Businesses and apartment developments being pinched by the cost of cutting away ever-increasing amounts of garbage now have a way to fight back.

According to Arlington Heights Sanitation, William Mack, hard-pressed businesses can hire, rent or lease a garbage compactor and save a great deal of time, effort and money.

Compactors ranging in size capacity from 20 to 33 cubic yards cut garbage removal costs because fewer scavenger service stops are needed each week. Mack said.

The electrically powered garbage compactors use hydraulic pressure, ranging from 10,000 to 30,000 lbs., to pack garbage into a closed container which is then emptied by a scavenger service. Mack said.

The compactors and their waste containers are completely closed. Mack said, making them more sanitary than garbage cans or commercial containers.

"THE USE of a compactor gets away from the need for a number of containers, where you often have the garbage cans getting damaged and sanitation problems," Mack said.

Because of the "hullabaloo" aspect of much refuse, Mack said, there is a need for reducing its size to make collection more efficient. A compactor can pay for itself in a year with reduced scavenger charges.

In Arlington Heights, compactors are used by commercial operations using compactors include Branderberry Apartments and the new Hawthorn plant. Mack said.

A SMALL compactor, has been installed on a true basis at McDonald's restaurant, Northwest Hwy. and Wilke Rd., he said.

According to Albert Brader, general manager of Lake Disposal Co., collection charges are usually $3.50 per yard for non-compacted refuse but only $1.00 per cubic yard for compacted refuse.

At the McDonald's Restaurant, Brader said, his firm formerly collected about six yards of non-compacted refuse twice a week. With the compactor, he said, McDonald's now has about 2½ cubic yards to be picked up twice a week.

Candidate blasts ruling on twp. tax collection fee

By Richard Crabb

dominate the suburbs.

Bergquist called on the Illinois Supreme Court to set aside the Cook County Circuit Court decision. Failing that, he called on the Constitutional Convention to restore the function of the township tax collector in writing the new constitution. Bergquist is running for the legislature from the 4th district.

THE ILLINOIS Supreme Court ruled last week that one day after the Cook County Circuit Court action that township tax collectors should continue their work until the high court had ruled on the appeal of the township collectors. The Supreme Court managed its agenda to permit a hearing on the matter late in January.

"Fortunately," Bergquist said, "the Illinois Supreme Court has wisely delayed carrying out the Circuit Court order until the justices have time to consider the matter fully."

The decision signed by Circuit Judge Daniel J. O'Brien last week, declared that only the Cook County collector may collect taxes for the county's various taxing agencies.

THE CIRCUIT Court decision would deprive the 10 suburban townships of between $4 and $7 million dollars a year to which they are entitled under the two per cent fee set up by Illinois law as payment for collecting taxes from county residents outside Chicago," Bergquist said.

"Although Judge O'Brien of the Cook County Circuit Court found the fee allowed the suburban township collectors unconstitutional," Bergquist reported, "he failed to bar the one and one-half per cent fee collected on taxes by the county collector."

"The state legislature orientiated this township collection fee," Bergquist said, "and the courts have permitted it for all these years. This matter should be a legislative function and the courts should not be allowed to upset it," Bergquist said.

"I hope the Supreme Court

Day light

By Joseph Steinhilber

The night before Christmas is certainly a lot more popular than its springtime rival, the midnight deadline for filling income tax returns.

The day after Christmas has been slighted, generally, except in the British Commonwealth, parts of Canada and formerly in Poland, where the 26th of December has been marked as Boxing Day. Since 1871, anyway, when it was officially declared a bank holiday and became a bona fide British non-business day.

The debate still rages, though in tones of "who cares?" about the origin of the name. One group insists the origin lies in the custom of opening the poor boxes in churches and distributing the contents to the needy of the parish on the day after Christmas. Others claim that it started with the visits of apprentices to their masters' estates, presenting earthenware "boxes" with the gentleman's reminder to tip one of spare tidbits or to his penance to his good cause.

WHILE MANY area residents make a point of singling out individuals who have been deserving of recognition at this season, most of us take for granted the quiet work done on our behalf all year long and do not bother showing our appreciation.

It's therefore a particularly pleasant thought that a group of dedicated workers on whom we would bestow such recognition has beaten us to the punch and instead has aranged for us to receive a bonus. Almost lost in the welter of holiday mail comes the low-keyed announcement by Lee H. Bridgman, SCS district conservator for Lake and North Cook counties, that preliminary plans are being completed for the installation of five lakes in the Salt Creek watershed to provide flood control for Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and Elk Grove Village.

When you check the facts that damages to seven communities from Salt Creek flooding in 1971 to more than $700,000, you have a right to be brighter up at the bonus you're getting.

Especially when you consider the extra benefits in swimming, boating, and winter sports.

BRIDGMAN, who has served Rich, Deseronto, now with the Natural Resources Service Center at Morton Arboretum in Lisle, is active here as just one of the unsung workers in the U.S. department of agriculture who have helped build more than 5,000 watershed lakes and reservoirs in the last 15 years across the nation. He's been with the USDA for 10 years and knows a few things about his job.

"The basic purpose of almost all the lakes in flood prevention," says Bridgman, "but recreation is an official second purpose at 20 lakes where local watershed project sponsors are paying about half of the added costs."

So it seems there are some others in our area who are on our bonus "thank you" list and will be gratefully remembered by northeastern suburban folk.

So far the national program for upstream watershed has prevented about $100 million in flood damage, controlled severe erosion on 1.2 million acres, developed city water supply and returned $2 in benefits for each $1 spent.

ANOTHER QUIET worker who has been busy along similar conservation lines is Jerry VandenBerg, of Country Computer Insurance, 201 N. Division, Arlington Heights, who has been chiefly instrumental in getting special comprehensive conservation kits with carefully selected conservation materials delivered to area schools, on behalf of the Soil and Water Conservation district, with headquarters at 715 S. Old Rand Rd., P.O. Box 186, in Lake Zurich.

Details about these kits started going over the phone to interested persons around the end of October, from the Farm Bureau in Grayslake, the Lake Zurich office, or Jerry himself.

We should be trying to get young students enthusiastic about the wise use of our land and area streams, and the kits are a proved way of stimulating action.

If the new decade were entering with such up gains in the grass roots programs needed to conserve our heritage of soil, water and other resources, it will need the full support of our youth.

MOST end-of-the-year bonuses are spent almost before the ink's dry on the check.

It's heartening to have one handed to our local citizenry, in almost an offhand gesture which bears the promise of continued benefits to come not just for 1970 but through all the years ahead.

In return for the best type of bonus we can suggest in return is for all concerned and appreciative area residents to help maintain property every project put into force by SCS district workers and sponsoring groups.

If we know anything about the kind of people they are, that will be bonus enough for them.

SINGING THE BLUES

Dear Lee:
I for three years I went with the same guy. After you've been with someone that long, especially when you're in high school, you're very attached. Now he's gone.
It's been very bad for me. The phone doesn't ring. I'm very homesick. His jokes don't pull up in front. No horn honks. I cry a lot. I know that he won't be back. I don't want to go out with anyone else. All I do is think of him.

I want to write other girls about going steady. It's really awful if it ends. I wish this terrible feeling I have would stop.
All Alone, Mount Prospect
Step a while on your face and jump back in. The longer you sit alone, the worse it will be. There's more than one nice boy in this world. You'll probably find him looking for you.

BIG MOUTH

Dear Lee Janson:
Every week this girl sits on with us at the basketball game. She doesn't watch the game. She just comes to see who's with who. She spends all her time cutting everyone down. She keeps on talking, but it's never about the game. It's no fun to go to a game and listen to someone like that. How can we tell her to get lost?

Just tell her. Pick up and move if she insists on ignoring the game. Hope your team wins them all.

A LEE JANSONISM:

Do you suppose that many girls really realize what happens to a boy when she believes in a certain way?

Mrs. Edna Foote celebrates her 99th Christmas

By Frances Altman

This was Mrs. Edna Foote's 99th Christmas. On July 1 in a new century she will celebrate her 100th birthday.

Mrs. Foote, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. Esther Wyman, and a niece in Arlington Heights, still gets around her home with the aid of canes or a walker and until a year ago did all of her own housework. In 1948 Mrs. Foote moved to Arlington Heights and began a small at-home doughnut business which she operated until about two years ago.

Born in Trenton, Wis., Mrs. Foote and her husband lived for many years in Des Plaines.

There she was active with the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Church and took great interest in their many quilting bees. One of her sons, Donovan Foote, still resides in Des Plaines.

This Christmas Mrs. Foote received gifts and greetings from her two sisters who live in Wisconsin and Michigan and are 82 and 89 years old, her three children, five grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren. Her second son who lives in North Carolina delivered his gift in person and recently spent a few days visiting in the area.

There's more than Christmas bells ringing

Young Clifford Barz, age 6, carried off his duties as ring-bearer, with great aplomb at the marriage of his sister Carolyn Barz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Barz of Mount Prospect, to David R. Haney, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Haney of Arlington Heights.

The couple became man and wife Sept. 6 at St. Raymond Catholic Church in Mount Prospect, with Father Carroll conducting the ceremony and Judy Sommerfeld performing as soloist. Arrangements of white flowers bedecked the altar.

THE BRIDE wore a full-length white chiffon gown with heavy cotton lace bodice, long full sleeves with cotton lace cuffs, its flowing skirt and long detachable train gave a "juicy" effect. In place of a veil, the bride wore a chiffon bow headpiece. For her bridal bouquet she carried a nosegay of tiny pale pink and white roses with strings.

Matron of honor was Carol Froese of Norwalk, Conn. Bridesmaid were Patricia Alter of Arlington Heights, Linda Sark of Elk Grove Village and Annette Dillingham of Stillwater, Okla. All the girls wore Empire gowns in a dark brown and ivory color combination, the long-sleeved bodices of dark brown crepe, and collar, cuffs and skirt of off-white mesh. They carried small nosegays of tiny pale pink roses and white baby's breath.

The bride's mother chose a dark brown satin jacket dress with turquoise trim. With it she wore turquoise flowers. The groom's mother wore a dress and jacket in pale blue brocade, with a pale pink corset.

Best man was James McGee of Cresco, Iowa. Curtis and Christopher Barz, the bride's brothers, and Michael Dillingham served as ushers.

FOLLOWING the wedding, 150 guests attended the reception at Seven Eagles Restaurant, Des Plaines. The couple spent a brief honeymoon at the Marriott in Park Ridge.

St. Raymond's Catholic Church in Mount Prospect was the scene of the Nov. 29 wedding of the former Susan Mae Newlin to Ronald Lee Cox, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cox of Coffeyville, Kan. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Newlin of San Jose, Calif.

The 3:30 service was read by Rev. Kierans of St. Raymond's. After the ceremony a reception was held at the Mount D' Restaurant.

For her wedding the bride chose a Victorian gown of candlelight peas de soie with Irish lace trim. Complementing her attire was a bridal bouquet of white mums, carnations and ivy.

Attending the bride was Miss Nancy Gruber of Mount Prospect, the maid of honor, and Miss Michelle Wilcox and Maryann Cleven, bridesmaids.

Larry Canon served the groom as best man. Ushers were Gary Newlin and Jerry Cox, brothers of the couple, and Alex Coleman.

The groom of the bride's attendants were Empire styled tuxedo suits. The bridesmaids wore the same.

Discover a new cookie treat in ancient Bear's Paws

By Margaret Murphy

If you are looking for an ancient recipe which prepared in this country, but still traditional in Czechoslovakia, here is one that I have known about but never could make for lack of form. Now the "Just a Scoop" shop in Arlington Heights' Evergreen Plaza, which gathers china, glass and cookware from the four corners of the globe, with the little forms at only 10 cents each. You've guessed correctly if you think this recipe takes more time than most in preparation. However, the greatest benefit for her labor is the sense of well-being the unconsciously absorbs.

ALL GOOD recipes, like legends, go through changes. The original version called for ground hazelnuts, native to Bohemia, an agricultural country. However, when the greasy on vacation travelled to Italy and brought back almonds, they thought it was superior to filberts, and a change was made.

Then someone discovered the dough would cook easier if grated chocolate was added. In spite of this, the cookie is still a favorite abroad, and the name is derived from the little forms which make the goodies resemble bear's paws. I invested in six forms and used a small muffin pan for the remainder. You may have this recipe make 28 cookies. Because of their rich quality, I would suggest not putting them in an uncrust, but serve them with a light dessert such as sherbet or a melange of fruits.

It was my good fortune to have my favorite FM station on when I started preparations, and quite fittingly the Prague Philharmonic accompanied my baking with Antonin Dvorak's New World Symphony. A Christmas experience, indeed!

BEAR'S PAWS
(Makes 54 cookies)

2 cups flour
1/2 cup sugar

1 cup ground hazelnuts (do not need to be bleached)

1/2 pound frozen butter

1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

1/2 teaspoon ground cloves

2 ounces grated sweet chocolate

1 egg

Grated lemon rind from 1/2 lemon.

Put flour into large bowl.

Add sugar and ground nuts.

Mix in thoroughly in order cinnamon, cloves, lemon rind and grated chocolate. Then shake better into dry ingredients, stirring frequently.

In a separate bowl, beat egg a little and add mix thoroughly. With your hands squeeze mixture together into large balls and place in refrigerator until dough is stiff.

Take forms and grease with vegetable shortening. Coat with flour, shaking out any excess amount. Pinch off dough and press into forms with fingers to one-half inch from top. Do not fill entire form, just the thick.

Place filled forms on cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Remove from oven and let stand five minutes.

If necessary, loosen cookies gently at top of form with paring knife, so as not to break them. Sprinkle with powdered sugar to which a little cinnamon has been added. Cookies freeze very well.

VESELY VANCE!

CITIZENS BANK INTRODUCES THE

"GOLDEN 'DOUBLE-DOLLARS PLAN"

It makes all other "Golden 5%" accounts obsolete!

INSTANT WRITE-A-CHECK
LOANS AT ONLY 7%
(others charge up to 18%)

MEANTIME WE PAY YOU
5% ON THE SAME MONEY

Now you can take advantage of a remarkable bank plan that lets you put your cash reserves to work earning you a full 5% interest—yet have all or part of your money instantly usable whenever you need temporary cash without disturbing the full 5% earnings on a single penny of your money!

Citizens' FDIC-insured "Golden Double-Dollars Plan" is the only bank account in America that gives you this extraordinary, money-saving "borrowing power!"

Here's how it works:

Open a Citizens "Golden Double-Dollars Plan" for $2,500 or more. You start earning 5% compound interest from the very first day of deposit. You can add to your account at any time, in any amount. You can make a direct withdrawal with just 90 days' notice, or without any notice at all after 90 days, during the first 10 days of any January or July.

But here's the best part:

Suppose you need temporary cash—say $500 or $1,000.

Instead of going through the time-consuming bother of applying for a loan (at annual interest rates up to 18% or more) or using a regular "Line-of-Credit" plan, "revolving charge" or credit card (again at interest rates of up to 18% or more) you can simply write a check.

When the bank pays your check this creates an automatic loan at a simple interest rate of only 7% per year against the credit of your account. But in the meantime, even the money behind this loan continues to earn you the full 5% interest. So in effect, you pay a net interest rate of only 2% per year until you repay the money at your convenience—either in full or in partial payments. And your interest is only for the exact number of days you use the money.

In addition to saving money, you've also saved yourself a lot of time, bother and paperwork! And you've avoided dipping into your cash reserves. There are no "service" charges of any kind for this unique plan.

The "Golden Double-Dollars Plan" makes all other "Golden 5%" accounts obsolete because it's the only one that lets your dollars do double-duty...

... they earn a full 5% interest, which is as much or more than any other "time" or "investment" account or certificate of deposit (under $100,000) in all other Federal Reserve Member Banks in the United States.

... they are instantly usable as credit whenever you need temporary cash... as simply and quickly as writing a check... at a net interest rate which is far less than any other check-credit or "revolving charge" plan in the United States.

Start putting Citizens 5% "Golden Double-Dollars Plan" United Security Account to work for you. Just stop in at Citizens—the $170,000,000 "on-the-grow" bank. Or use the coupon to open your account conveniently by mail. Include your check—or your passbook or certificate if you want to transfer the money from another bank or Savings and Loan.

Moore House, Yorktown Virginia

The Moore House property was purchased in 1768 by Augustine Moore, a merchant of Yorktown, and the Moore family lived in the house throughout the siege. Augustine Moore died in 1788, but his widow continued to occupy the house until her death in 1797. In 1931, it became the property of the United States. Restored as nearly as possible to its condition in 1781, and refurnished through the cooperation of various patriotic groups, the Moore House is administered as a part of Colonial National Historical Park.

Total community idea requires careful design

A community "mix" of apartments, single-family homes and townhouses is a new opening bid in the housing game. But, the dwellings must "meld" together to make a winning hand.

Compulsivity of residential design is credited for much of the success of a new "total community" rising 5½ miles outside New York City. Development of Panther Valley is 2,000 acre community in Allamuchy, N.J. was predicated on three essentials: a gracious country-manor atmosphere, conservation of the area's natural beauty, and creation of "a mix-and-meld" housing units varied to suit individual tastes, yet coordinated with the site and with each other.

most traditional (in line with the community's Colonial theme) and all architecturally styled. Single-family "warmth and charm" were created with the elegant and extensive use of wood. All windows, doors and woodwork (such as molding, trim, staircases and mantels) are ponderosa pine-stock units with a rich, custom look.

The Colonial apartments feature handsome wood panel entries with delicately designed pediments and side-lights; multi-light double-hung wood windows and elegant bows and bay windows.

In contemporary units, wide-view casement windows, which emphasize the "modern" look, are stained to blend with textured wood siding. Wood slab sliding doors lead to spacious balconies. Most apartments offer as much living space and as many amenities as single-family homes outside the community—often for less money.

THE PRIVATE HOME "feeling" was so carefully achieved that it's difficult to tell—except for the number of mailboxes at each entrance—that the units are multi-family.

To emphasize the community's Colonial aura, street signs are hand-painted and rustic and weathered. Gas lines light the streets. And, service buildings like the bank, gas station and motel are "disguised" as gracious old New-England homes.

The charming single-family home "feeling" reflected in these handsome Colonial apartments was created with authentic design and the imaginative use of wood. Elegant entries with traditionally styled paneled doors, multi-pane windows and lower shutters are all stock units of ponderosa pine.

Plum Grove model has English styling

A new English country style model home, the BUCKINGHAM, has been announced by Albert Riley Builders, in their Creekside development in the Plum Grove area of Rolling Meadows.

A 10-room, four-bedroom, two-and-a-half bath design, the Buckingham combines the elegant yet casual flavor of the English country Manor with the latest modern American conveniences and luxuries.

Handsome double entry doors lead into a large slate floor foyer. The bright open-plan kitchen has a separate informal dining area, and very handy storage pantry. A main floor laundry room provides direct access to exterior, as well as the interior of the home. Styled in the "California manner," the patio of the Buckingham may be reached through either the family room, or kitchen dining area. A separate formal size dining room and large paneled family room with ranch plan flooring and beamed ceiling are also located on the main level.

The second floor is highlighted by an exceptional master bedroom suite, which includes dressing room, bath, and walk-in closet.

"THIS NEW MODEL," said Albert Riley, president, "has been carefully designed to complement the casual country style we have created in Creekside, while adding some features and ideas we've developed since offering our original model."

Situated in a rolling landscape of private winding roads, the Buckingham offers the privacy of no more than eight homes on a single lot with each home a one-third-acre lot to prevent the monotony of side-by-side construction. Cedar shake mansard roof and a variety of country and colonial exterior stylings all help to make a pleasing environment. A nearby by-laws for residents, with

Solar window greenhouse brightens winter days

You can have your January days brightened up with tulips, hyacinths, narcissus, daffodils and other lovely blooms.

The Solar Window Greenhouse is a year-around boon to all suburban gardeners, but of course it has special appeal when green-thumbs are forced to say indoors.

It's also a "hospital" for house plants which start to show droop or sag. Just put them in the greenhouse and they'll resume growing.

ON PUT SOME space, your own herbs, a simple enough operation, if you follow Lord &

Burnham's "Helpful Hints," which has a full chapter on this phase of window sill gardening.

There are literally scores of flowers and vegetables you can grow in this greenhouse, no matter whether you decide on early spring, late summer or fall, instead of winter, to raise standard plants or exotic varieties.

If your window faces the sun, you can grow azaleas, wisteria, African violets, ferns, impatiens, dracaena, philodendron, spicata, ficus, fuchsias, and so on are recommended, while even in north windows, African violets, ferns, impatiens, dracaena, philodendron, spicata, ficus, fuchsias, and so on are recommended.

For shaded windows, English ivy, orchids, philodendron, spicata, ficus, fuchsias, and so on are recommended, while even in north windows, African violets, ferns, impatiens, dracaena, philodendron, spicata, ficus, fuchsias, and so on are recommended.

When inquiring about prices, specify window width and height. A standard solar window starts at height 32 inches, with 33 inches, at $130 which includes prepaid shipping. Besides 12 standard models, the company offers to make special up to 48 inches wide, 72 inches high.

A solar window greenhouse to bring color and outdoor gaiety into your home all year round is a timely winter idea for glowering plants and blooms in this practical, easily maintained window all garden spot, a product of Lord & Burnham, Irvington, N.Y.

Stonebridge Hill units begin renting

Jack F. Nechels, president, and Michael S. Kravitz, vice president, look over a model of one of Hollywood Builders' newest apartment complexes—Stonebridge Hill in Arlington Heights on Rand Rd. This complex features the most up-to-date conveniences available. Laundry and locker rooms are found on each floor, and a separate recreation area has two ballgame rooms, and a large party room. Plans will be competitive for the area and there is easy access to both suburban highways and the I-55 Expressway. Airport is just 10 minutes away.

Units will begin renting sometime during December, but make application directly to Hollywood Builders at 3525 W. Fullerton, Chicago.

Dining...Dancing...Entertainment in the Northwest Suburbs

RESTAURANT OF THE WEEK:

THE BRASS RAIL

Gourmet dining with true southern roots — the mark of the Brass Rail — can be found at the Brass Rail in the Sheraton O'Hare on Mannheim Road. It's one of the best in our area! The Brass Rail is located, but the prices are well within the realm for everyone to enjoy. Plenty of room with seating capacity up to 200, and everything dancing on Friday and Saturday nights to the Larry Brent Inc. hand-drawn piano with trio background. Just right for some special holiday fun!
